Lincoln recalled

Abraham Lincoln — the state's most famous citizen — will be commemorated on Monday, Feb. 12, the 170th anniversary of his birth.

The following article by a Granite City High School North student, Ronald D. Davis, is featured in the February 1979 issue of Illinois History magazine, a publication for teenagers sponsored by the Illinois State Historical Society. Lincoln is the theme for the issue, and the Granite City's article is entitled "The Seven Debates".

On June 16, 1858, the Republican state convention nominated Abraham Lincoln for United States senator from Illinois.

In his thirties, Lincoln had been a leader of the Whig party in Illinois; now at age 47 he was suddenly a leading Republican. On the evening of Lincoln's nomination, he delivered his famous House Divided Speech.

After the convention Lincoln challenged his opponent, Stephen A. Douglas, to a series of debates. Although Douglas accepted, he did not look forward to the debates.

That he knew Lincoln would be a tough match is obvious from a statement he made to John W. Forney: "I shall have my hands full. He is a strong man of his party — full of wit, facts, dates — and the best stump-speaker, with his droll ways and dry jokes, in the West. He is as honest as he is shrewd; and if I beat him, my victory will be hard won."

From the day the debates were planned, the meetings were the subject of political interest in the prairie state. There were only seven formal debates, but the sizable state of Illinois was pretty well canvassed.

Douglas chose one location in each of the congressional districts where he and Lincoln had not already appeared together. Douglas also set the dates for the meetings.

The two opposing candidates had already stimulated interest in speeches they gave at the Tremont House in Chicago. Douglas on July 9 and Lincoln, July 10.

The joint debates were to take place between Aug. 21 and Oct. 15, 1858. The first was at Ottawa, La Salle County, on Aug. 21, and on the 27th they spoke at Freeport.

On Sept. 15, Lincoln and Douglas

Both public and parochial schools will be closed in the Quad-City area. However, the banks, savings and loan firms and most businesses will be open Monday.

Mail will be delivered. Local city offices will be open and the Press-Record will publish Monday.

Royce not owner

Bernie Royce is not the owner of a vacant home at 1014 West Pontoon Road that was the scene of a fire Feb. 2. An initial record of the ownership was incorrect. The property is owned by Dr. Robert H. Halley of St. Louis, authorities say.

Data from candidates

Quad-City area candidates for spring 1979 city, school and park elections are encouraged to submit their biographies, pictures and campaign issue comments promptly to the Press-Record, 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City.

Seek early GC teacher retirements to cut costs

As a cost-cutting measure, the Granite City Board of Education decided Tuesday night to encourage early retirement of veteran teachers, opening more positions for younger persons. Salary schedules call for lower pay of those with less teaching experience and fewer degrees.

The one-time-only "early retirement incentive plan" (ERIP) is being offered to certificated employees who retire after Jan. 1, 1979, and on or before June 30, 1979.

The school administration will take responsibility for the rules and regulations used in implementing the new policy statement and believes it has been devised in a way that complies with all laws. In approving the plan, the board cited "financial considerations (borrowing to meet operating costs) and a desire to reduce the certificated staff through attrition rather than dismissal."

The incentive plan was explained as follows:

1. Prior to the age of 65, a certificated employee may elect to participate in ERIP.

2. To be eligible, the person must have completed at least 15 years of full-time employment with Community District No. 9, must be at least 55 years of age, and no older than 64 years, by June 30 of his retirement year; must complete the contract year; must notify the Board of Education, in writing, of his intention to participate at least 75 calendar days prior to end of school in the last full year of employment.

3. Participants retiring prior to age 60 may continue to be enrolled in the district's medical, hospital, and life insurance plan as if they were active employees. The costs will be borne by the Board of Education until the retiree attains age 65.

In the event of death, the dependent coverage will continue at board expense until the date the former employee would have become 65 or until the dependents become otherwise ineligible, whichever occurs first. Examples: a spouse's remarriage; loss of student status, or age attainment by a dependent child. This ineligibility includes the insured spouse who attains age 65.

4. Participants who elect to retire between the ages of 60 and 64 may be enrolled in the district's medical, hospital and life insurance plan at their own expense and at district rates as if they were active employees. Dependent coverage may also be continued at the retiree's expense so long as the dependents remain otherwise eligible.

5. Persons electing to participate will be compensated on a deferred basis using the person's annual base salary as reference. Annual base salary as reflected on the salary and personnel information sheet and won't include cost of living, extracurricular, board-

Burns testifies he saw $20,000 given in payoffs

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

The federal trial of former Madison County Sheriff John Maeras, Capt. John Cooper of the sheriff's department and fund-raiser Leland Stoller opened this week in Alton with most of the attention focused on one witness, former deputy Gary Lee Burns, 33, of Granite City.

Burns appeared as a witness both Tuesday and Wednesday and continued his testimony when court opened at 9 a.m. today. He began his ninth hour of testimony when today's court session began.

Burns testified that he has seen an estimated $20,000 in funds raised by the Madison County Deputy Sheriff's Association hand-delivered to Maeras and that he and Cooper both decided to keep some of the money.

He also made allegations that he has been told Maeras was receiving kickbacks of two cents per gallon for gasoline pumped into county squad cars at certain service stations and five cents per quart for motor oil.

He also alleged he has been told of payoffs to the former sheriff from operators of houses of prostitution. Burns' credibility, however, is undergoing a serious challenge, as he has admitted he perjured himself in interviews and testimony to a federal grand jury and to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Internal Revenue Service.

Defense attorneys also got Burns to admit involvement in several drug purchases. And Burns told the jury he once offered to arrange a $10,000 purchase of marijuana for a local woman through "a Colombian contact."

Much of yesterday's testimony dealt with a letter Burns said he wrote in Cooper's presence Feb. 1, 1974, which accused Maeras and others of illegal activities.

Although U.S. District Judge J. Waldo Ackerman, who is hearing the case, ruled the letter could not be read in the courtroom, he did allow defense attorneys to question Burns about its contents.

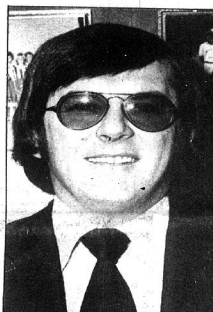

Burns testified the letter implicated Capt. Robert Rizzi of the sheriff's department as having had knowledge of kickbacks to Maeras, but Burns said yesterday he had lied, because "John Maeras used Rizzi as a hatchet man. He provided a double standard."

Under questioning by Bruce Cook of Belleville, attorney for Maeras, Burns was asked if he was trying to send Rizzi to prison. Burns answered, "I wouldn't say I wanted to send him to prison." Asked if he was sorry for lying about Rizzi, Burns answered, "I'm sorry for a lot of things. I'm sorry I said that about Rizzi. He wasn't involved."

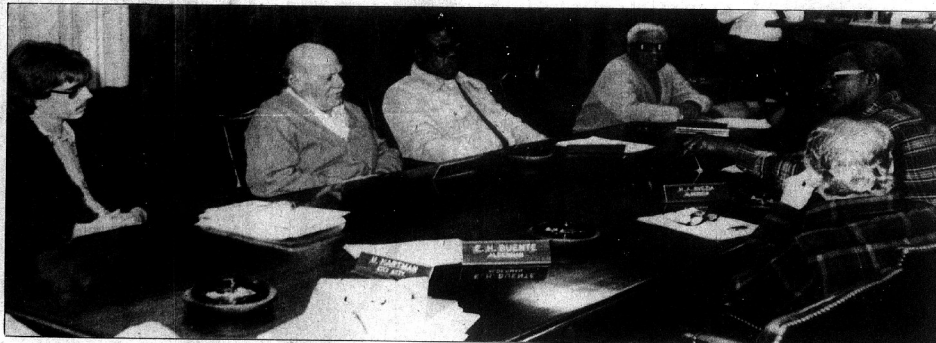

He said one of Cooper's main concerns during IRS and grand jury investigations after the letter became public was keeping it quiet that Cooper was present when it was written.

Burns admitted he has made a "deal" with federal government to testify against Maeras, Cooper and Stoller. In return for his cooperation, and a plea of guilty he entered to a perjury charge, the federal prosecutors

Robbers invade home

Three men, at least two of them armed with handguns, broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Daugherty on E. Chain of Rocks Road Monday night, tied both of the victims after threatening to kill Mrs. Daugherty, and escaped with more than $2,100 in cash.

Daugherty was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center several hours after the home invasion, which occurred at 7:50 p.m. when Daugherty, 64, opened the front door of his home in response to a knock.

He suffered an injury to the little finger of his left hand and abrasions to the face when he grappled with the robber as he started into the house. Daugherty told the Press-Record that upon hearing the knock at the door, he went to a window and peered out. "I thought I recognized the man and opened the door," he said. The home on E. Chain of Rocks Road is one-half mile west of Route 157.

The man, carrying a pistol, started into the room and Daugherty, who has undergone open heart surgery, grabbed the pistol and wrestled with the robber. A second man entered and held Daugherty.

Meanwhile, his wife, Jewell, 54, left the room to obtain a .38 caliber pistol kept in a bedroom, but the second man also entered the bedroom and leveled a gun at her as she reached into a closet to get her gun. He told her he would kill her if she picked up the gun. Mrs. Daugherty told sheriff's deputies.

The man brought Mrs. Daugherty back into the living room where they already had bound Daugherty. Mrs. Daugherty was told to lie on the floor beside her husband and put her hands behind her back. She did so and one of the men tied her hands.

Deputies reported they believe two or three men were involved in the home robbery, but Daugherty, a former resident of Granite City and a former

Cable TV pact sought

Granite City will move ahead immediately in the negotiation of a contract to provide cable television in the coming year, the city council decided Tuesday night by Granite City Council members.

Acting on a motion by Alderman Clyde Boyd, chairman of a special Cable TV Committee, the aldermen authorized the committee to negotiate terms of a contract with Southwestern Cable TV, Inc., of Edwardsville, and to report back to the council.

Southwestern Cable TV was one of three firms whose representative attended a special City Council meeting Jan. 30 to outline proposals for providing cable television service through installations in Granite City.

indicated interest in a television franchise here had been notified of the special meeting by certified mail. Two of the three firms represented at the Jan. 30 meeting did not have prepared proposals, while Southwestern Cable TV, Inc., "had a proposal pretty well worked out," Boyd said.

"I would suggest that we not sign a

Single SIU executive proposed

Amid speculation that SIUE President Kenneth Shaw, 40, would be among those interviewed as "super president" of Southern Illinois University, an SIU board-created committee recommended last night that a single administrator be placed in authority over the Carbondale and local universities.

Trustees indicated they may consider action on the proposal today. James Brown's post as general secretary may be eliminated and SIUC President Warren Brandt may be dismissed or given the title of campus chancellor, those close to the board believe.

Dr. Shaw, who was born in Granite City, could be named acting SIU president, it was learned. In addition, he is likely to be among those invited to seek such a permanent post if it is created.

GC youth held in slaying of guard

Michael E. Shane, 20, of the 2900 block of Maryville Road, a soldier stationed at the Granite City Army Installation, was taken into custody here at 6:20 p.m. Tuesday on an active warrant issued in St. Louis County, charging capital murder.

Shane's arrest took place at the same time the 23-year-old wife of a slain security guard was arrested on a capital murder charge at an Overland (Mo.) funeral home.

Vicky Rowen Williams of Echo Lake, Overland, was at the wake for her husband, Gilbert Lee Williams, 27, who was found shot to death Sunday in an industrial area near the Spirit of St. Louis Airport, police said.

Authorities said the charges involve an alleged contract killing for sex and money.

A third warrant was issued for a Bel Ridge, Mo. man, allegedly involved in the crime, who is believed to have fled from the area.

Two St. Louis County detectives and two Granite

City police officers, accompanied by Army Installation security personnel, arrested Shane Sunday in the industrial area near the Spirit of St. Louis Airport, police said.

Shane appeared before Judge Andrew A. Mateosian in the Third Judicial Circuit Court, Granite City, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. He was explained his rights and he waived an extradition hearing.

Shane was released to Dets. Frank Savetz and Richard Seymour of St. Louis County Police Department at 8:20 p.m. the same day.

He appeared in the 37th District Court in St. Louis County Wednesday and a public defender was appointed.

Associate St. Louis County Circuit Judge Dennis J. Quillin, who issued the warrants, has refused bond for Shane and Mrs. Williams, both of whom are being held in St. Louis County jail.

Primary concern of the St. Louis County prosecuting attorney's office and the Crimes Against Person Division, which is responsible for the investigation, is "catching the second man charged with capital murder, and the recovery of the murder weapon," Attorney Tom DePriest, chief warrants officer for the prosecuting attorney's office said early Wednesday.

"We are working on some leads and hopefully we'll have him back here in the next two days," DePriest said. He indicated the man being sought may now be some distance from this area.

DePriest was right. Terry Lee McIlvoy, 23, of Bel Ridge, Mo., the second man charged in the case, agreed to surrender Wednesday after fleeing to Texas. He was arrested at Dallas airport by St. Louis County detectives.

McIlvoy also waived extradition proceedings and has agreed to return to St. Louis, police said.

St. Louis County Prosecuting Attorney George R. Westfall gave this summary of the case from information available so far:

Mrs. Williams allegedly approached five persons at a party, including McIlvoy and Shane, and asked them to kill her husband. She offered to have sex with McIlvoy and pay him $1,000 if he would kill her husband, authorities said. Negotiating sessions were held over a three-week period, it is charged.

Some members of the group went to the area where Williams worked as a security guard early Saturday morning and watched his movements, looking for a place and time to kill him, it is alleged.

They allegedly returned to the same area, on the grounds of Trend, Inc., an industrial area near the airport in West St. Louis County, early Sunday morning and waited for Williams.

When Williams arrived in a pickup truck shortly after 3:30 a.m., Shane allegedly approached the truck and used a club to smash the window on the driver's side. McIlvoy allegedly opened fire with a .22 caliber rifle, striking Williams numerous times.

Westfall said the two men returned to the others and McIlvoy allegedly laughed about the incident and boasted that he had shot Williams "at least eight times."

Authorities said they did not know a motive for the slaying, but that Mrs. Williams had told friends her husband had beaten her and she wanted a divorce but was afraid he would get custody of their children, ages 6 and 4.

When detectives arrived at the Overland funeral home about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, they asked a funeral director to bring Mrs. Williams to the office.

When told she was under arrest and charged with the murder of her husband, Mrs. Williams said, "Why? No. Oh no, why?"

She was led from the funeral home appearing shocked and dazed to the county jail in Clayton.

The arrest left relatives of the victim stunned and dazed.

Mrs. Williams was escorted by detectives to her husband's funeral at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, and then returned to St. Louis County Jail.

contract at this time, but to negotiate the terms that should be included in such a contract," he told the aldermen. "I am particularly interested in getting the best possible rates for the people who would use the service," Boyd added.

On Boyd's motion that negotiations be undertaken, the council concurred and referred the matter to the special Cable Television Committee. The matter of installing cable television here has been under consideration by the council since August 1978 when Mayor Schuler named the special committee to handle developments.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Margaret Nonn, alderman of Ward Five, and Alderman Everett Morlen of the First Ward.

Southwestern Cable Television now has cable television installations in Edwardsville and Collinsville. Representatives of the firm have told city officials that a facility here would be linked with the Edwardsville and Collinsville facilities to offer areawide public service broadcasts. That firm has offered 23 channels in its proposal.

2 more meetings fail to choose an acting mayor

By MICK STRANGE

The Venice City Council Tuesday night abandoned efforts to break a "hopeless deadlock" in the selection of an acting mayor and decided to let the issue lie until the next meeting, scheduled for Saturday morning.

The council has been stalemated since Feb. 1 in a move to choose between Alderman Philip Daniels who is white and Alderman Tyrone Echols who is black. The 4-to-4 council split has been along racial lines.

The mayor's post must be filled until the April 17 city election. Echols is a candidate for mayor in that election, while Daniels has filed for election to the permanent seat in which he now is serving by appointment.

Frank Papa, an off-duty Madison police officer serving as a private process server for the court, served summonses Monday evening to those attending a Venice City Council meeting.

The summonses gave the council members until Saturday to pick an acting mayor. The aldermen were ordered to appear at Courtroom Nine at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in Edwardsville if an agreement was not reached.

The council has been deadlocked since E. Harry Buentge resigned the post due to health reasons, on Feb. 1.

Summonses were served to the city of Venice as a corporation; Aldermen: George Mangiaracino, Hank Svezia, Buentge, Daniels, Echols, John Ervin, George Lewis, Oscar King, Carl Brynes, comptroller of Venice, and J. Allen Gardner, treasurer.

Falling to reach a decision last week, the council recessed until Monday evening, when it again failing to reach an agreement. The Council then recessed until Tuesday.

After being in executive session over an hour Tuesday night, the council convened for an open session and adjourned, rather than recess to a later date.

The official complaint in court was signed by Vernon Brown, a bridge employee, and Cpl. Ferris Smith of the Venice Police Department.

The bridge employees and the city employees have missed scheduled paydays.

The court is asked to appoint a mayor "pro hac vice" who would be empowered to perform limited duties such as signing the checks for payroll and paying of bills.

The plaintiffs also are asking the court to declare the aldermen as having forfeited their offices for allegedly not following the laws of the State of Illinois and violating their oath of office by not filling the vacancy of acting mayor. As an alternative, the plaintiffs are asking the court to force a decision by drawing by lot to solve the issue.

Burns

are to recommend six months in a jail-type institution and four and one-half years of probation, he related.

Attorney H. Carl Runge, who represents Cooper, pointed out that the wording of the agreement with the federal authorities does not mention state charges which could be lodged against him from the drug dealing. Burns said the federal prosecutors telephoned Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron and confirmed there would be no charges currently being prepared against Burns.

Runge warned, however, that Burns has no guarantees the drug charges will not be pursued. "You could be indicted at 9 a.m. tomorrow," Runge told Burns.

The former sergeant testified that he and Cooper made an agreement with Stoller who had been hired to conduct a fund-raising dance for the former deputy association, that 10 percent of the money raised for a dance in the fall of 1972 would go directly to Sheriff Maeras.

He told the jury that he and Cooper, on numerous occasions, had met with Stoller during fund-raising activities and had hand-carried money to Maeras.

He said that the first time they accepted money from Stoller, "He gave me this large amount of money, somewhere in the vicinity of $1,700 to $2,000, shortly after the 1972 dance solicitation started."

He testified that Cooper told him, "Why don't you give him (Maeras) the money this time. It would help solidify your position with him to give it to him yourself."

Burns said both he and Cooper counted the money twice and then gave it to Maeras in a hallway outside Maeras' office in the Madison County Jail.

"I told him, 'This is to help your campaign,' and he said, 'Thanks,' and returned to his office," Burns testified.

He estimated he and Cooper gave the sheriff money on "10, 15, maybe even 20" occasions between 1972 and into 1975 as presents from Stoller during dance solicitations, advertising sales for a drug book, Christmas basket drives and other fund-raising activities.

He alleged that once he and Cooper took Stoller from the deputies' association office over the Rozycki Realty building on Madison Avenue in Granite City to the First National Bank in Madison so Stoller could cash a check.

He said the check, drawn on the deputies' checking account, was so large that John Beltracchi, an officer of the bank, approached Burns and Cooper to inquire whether it should be cashed.

Although Burns did not know the amount of the check, he alleged that Stoller cashed it, kept a portion of the money for traveling expenses, "and gave the rest to us for the sheriff."

In a prior incident, Stoller gave Burns and Cooper $500, with the $500 bank wrapper still around the bills, at St. Louis' Lambert Airport just before Stoller left on a plane, and Stoller told them "it was to go to the sheriff," Burns said.

He also testified that after he and Cooper delivered the $1,700 to $2,000 from the first alleged kickback to Maeras, they decided that they would keep a portion of future kickbacks for themselves.

"We talked between ourselves and said, 'Why should the sheriff get all the money when we are taking all the risks?'" Burns recalled. He said they both took some money from all additional payoffs they handled.

Burns estimated he took a total of about $3,000 over several years. When asked how much he believed Cooper took, Burns said, "Probably the same. We always took the same amount."

Burns said that on June 10, 1977, he received a subpoena to appear before a federal grand jury in Springfield and he called Cooper and said he wanted to talk to him before he testified June 15, 1977.

He said they met in the sheriff department and he told Cooper, "I didn't know what to do about it."

Burns alleged that Cooper "said he was going to keep quiet and not say anything. I said I had to answer (for) the letter."

Burns said Cooper "was very upset and nervous about it." He said that he (Burns) then spoke to Sheriff Maeras, with Cooper present, and discussed what I would tell them."

He said he told the sheriff, "I'm not going to tell anything that will hurt you. I can help you on Wednesday."

"He said he would appreciate anything I could do," Burns related.

Burns then admitted he lied about the money he had taken from the grand jury, including denying that he had taken payoffs from any tow truck operations.

Defense Attorney Michael Costello, who represents Stoller and Lee Stoller Enterprises, Inc., made a motion for a mistrial, on the basis Stoller was not receiving a fair trial due to discussions between the two defense attorneys and the government on counts of the indictment not involving Stoller.

Ackerman dismissed the motion. Cook was the first to cross-examine Burns and the witness agreed with a basic premise that after Maeras took the sheriff's department and the county in 1975, with deputies placed under a merit system instead of continuing a patronage system, and that the sheriff's department had cleaned up prostitution and gambling in the county.

Burns testified about raids which he said ended prostitution at Myrene's Steeplehouse in Alton, the Marco Polo Lounge in Nameoki Township and Club J and the M&M Steakhouse, both near Fairmont Park Race Track.

He agreed that all of the raids had resulted in the businesses either closing or halting prostitution, and that most of the raids had been while Maeras was sheriff.

Cook also pointed out that Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison, who he said is Maeras' closest friend, sought help from the sheriff's department to help remove allegations of prostitution in the city of Madison. That resulted in a raid at Big Jen's Little Place and in indictments of three former Madison policemen who were later convicted.

Cook asked Burns if he might have been confused between the words "payoffs" and "lug," noting Maeras had to pay $1,700 to lug to Democratic party in 1972.

The attorney pointed out that the amount approximates the $1,700 to $2,000 Burns testified that he and Cooper delivered to the sheriff from Stoller. Cook did not pursue the matter the remainder of the day.

Cook also said his studies have shown that Stoller's profit margin from his fund-raising activities was about 18 percent. He asked Burns if he felt it made sense for Stoller to give away more than half of his profits. Burns replied, "He seemed pretty willing and happy to do so."

After a lunch break Wednesday, Runge took over cross-examination of Burns and compared Burns' 1977 grand jury testimony with what he now says is a $9 a.m. talker.

Burns now admits receiving money, gasoline, liquor, turkeys and other favors from Mick's Garage, Mitchell, which he denied before the grand jury in 1977.

Burns also alleged Wednesday that "a lot of people" received cash and favors from Mick's Garage in return for calling Mick's for tow trucks at accident scenes to tow cars.

Runge also got Burns to admit he told the grand jury he had taken about 15 envelopes to the sheriff, instead of cash, and only saw the contents of one, which contained 50 dance tickets.

"I lied. I never gave him any envelopes," Burns added. "The majority of that grand jury testimony is the story I was supposed to tell when we were there."

Runge also pointed out that Burns told the grand jury he had never received any money for the sale of drugs. Burns responded, "That's a lie. I have received money."

Burns was vague when Runge asked him when he decided to change his story from the one he told the grand jury in 1977 to the one he told a subsequent grand jury.

Cook picked up the questioning at that point and asked if Burns had decided to "change his story" in 1977 when a Diane Ellis testified before a grand jury, presumably about alleged drug transactions with Burns.

"Isn't that what you said changed your mind — in that part of what you told the grand jury — that you were caught?" he asked.

Burns responded, "I knew I was going to have to tell the truth sooner or later."

Under Cook's questioning, Burns admitted contacting Diane Ellis, allegedly to purchase a drug. And he said that, on another occasion, "I arranged to trade her some marijuana for some 'speed'."

He asked about an offer for a $10,000 marijuana supply. Burns testified, "I told her I had a contact in Colombia and could get her some."

Cook told the jury, "This man has potentially facing him some very serious drug charges on which the statute of limitations has not expired."

"The government has known... that this man sold 'speed,' marijuana and a number of specific drugs."

"There is a great interest on his part for his testimony to be believed by the government, to avoid going to... and Cook named several state prisons.

Judge Ackerman warned the attorneys while the jury was out of the room, "Gentlemen, we can't have a trial of Burns within this trial."

employee at Granite City Steel, said he was certain three men were involved. One of the men kept a gun on the bound victims as one or two other men searched the house for money, Daugherty related.

Mrs. Daugherty told officers that the intruders took $60 from a wallet, $130 from Daugherty's billfold and about $2,000 some in rolled coins, from two cigar boxes. The coins were in wrappers marked "Daugherty's Honey Stand." Daugherty is a bookkeeper.

After searching the house for about 30 minutes, the men took the cash and a .38 caliber blue-steel pistol and left in what appeared to be an older model car, according to Daugherty.

Mr. and Mrs. Daugherty worked themselves free in a few minutes. "They didn't tie us too tightly," Daugherty said. He then summoned

"I want to say that the sheriff's office should be commended for its quick service," Daugherty said. "Within 20 minutes after I called there were about six squad cars there, containing deputies and fingerprint officers."

Daugherty was taken to the medical center shortly before midnight after he experienced some chest pains, and to obtain treatment for his injured finger.

Mrs. Daugherty told police that one of the men addressed the other as "Mike" but that they mostly called one another "Man."

Deputies said Mrs. Daugherty told them she could not give a detailed description of facial features. Daugherty noted that while he and his wife were tied on the floor with one man covering them with a gun, he was certain two other men searched the house to locate the money.

Kickbacks from dances, fue, vice, towing alleged

Explosive testimony by former Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Gary Lee Burns of Granite City, that he and John Cooper had to negotiate a 10 percent "kick-back" — of money raised for a "deputies' dance" — to be given to former Sheriff John Maeras highlighted Tuesday's session of the federal trial of Maeras, Cooper and fund-raiser Leland Stoller.

Burns also testified he was told that the sheriff received two cents for every gallon of gasoline put into county squad cars at one garage, and a nickel for every quart of oil the county purchased.

He also told the jury that Cooper once told him Maeras received $500 from the former Marco Polo Lounge on Route 162 south of Granite City.

"We were on our way to Edwardsville in John's (Cooper) car and he told me the boss had gotten $500 from that place," Burns testified.

He alleged there had been prostitution in the lounge until it was raided a short time before Cooper mentioned the $500.

Burns, a former secretary of the Madison County Sheriff's Association, told the jury that after the association used Stoller to raise several thousand dollars at a dance in February 1972, Maeras was reluctant to allow another dance.

He said the sheriff was upset because he received complaints the telephone solicitors represented themselves as deputies, and sometimes as the sheriff, when they called businesses to ask for contributions.

"John (Cooper) and I talked about having Lee back and what a good job he'd done. The sheriff (Maeras) said all he got was complaints and bad publicity."

"About all he wanted to know was, 'What's in it for Old John?'" Burns testified.

"Cooper said, 'Maybe something could be worked out,'" Burns recalled.

He added that, a few months later, Stoller returned to town to begin organizing the next solicitation and met with Cooper and Burns at the Blue Note Lounge in Edwardsville. Burns said he thought it was in the fall of 1972.

The witness said they proposed that Stoller do something for the sheriff and said Stoller stated, "I've never had to do this with anyone else — (never) had to take care of anyone," Burns related.

He said Stoller contended that the sheriff was not a member or officer of the deputies' association and did not deserve anything.

"John Cooper and I explained what a powerful individual he is in the county. We said that he knows everybody. If he doesn't say okay, it just wouldn't come off," Burns related telling Stoller.

He said agreement was reached that Maeras would get 10 percent of the money collected.

"That was the agreement reached between John Cooper, Lee Stoller and myself. I believe that was 10 percent of the total collected, but later on it was reduced," he testified.

Under questioning by Cass Weiland, assistant U.S. attorney, Burns said a dance was held in September 1972, to the best of his memory, and that Stoller sold advertisements for a dance book, dance tickets and other items before Cooper mentioned the $500.

At other times, donations would be sought ostensibly for food baskets, the Salvation Army, deputy decals and other items. Donations for the dance or the other fund-raising activities could be mailed in, or "a runner" would pick up the donations, it was related.

Entertainment at the dances included Christie Lane, a singer who also was Stoller's wife, Burns related. He said all discussions he held with Sheriff Maeras were early in the morning, "because the sheriff always came in real early in the morning. I don't know how early it was. He was always there when I came to work, but at 10:30 or 11, he'd be gone."

Weiland also questioned Burns about alleged kickbacks to deputies from towing services in the county.

Burns said deputies formerly just called the nearest towing service, "but in the sheriff's early going, the beginning of his term, there were certain stations we would call."

He also said deputies were told to obtain gasoline for the squad cars at certain stations, including Mick's Garage, Interstate 270, Mitchell.

"The first time I got money was probably the first time I used him (Mick's) back in 1969 before Maeras was sheriff. How much we got depended on the year of the car."

"The newer it was, the more money. We usually got $5 to $7 a car, but what I did was to take the gas for my personal car," Burns said.

Asked by Weiland how much free gasoline he received, Burns answered, "I don't know. It was quite a bit." He said he received such favors in return for calling Mick's tow trucks to customers from 1969 through "probably 1972."

He also testified that he heard a lot of discussion about payoffs from honky-tonk prostitution and once listened through a door while Cooper and Madison Policeman Ronald Grzywacz negotiated a payoff for Maeras from Myrene Stuart, operator of Myrene's Steakhouse in St. Louis.

Burns said that in the summer of 1971, he made two trips past Myrene's, first with Grzywacz, and the second time with Cooper and Grzywacz.

He said they once met in Alton and the three went to Cooper's car to Myrene's, where he introduced them to Myrene Stuart.

"I told her I represented the sheriff and the two men with me wanted to talk to her. She could consider them as though she was talking to the sheriff, because they represented him," Burns said he told the woman.

"Ronnie, John (Cooper) and she stepped into another room and closed the door. I walked to the door. They were talking about the price it would cost to run prostitutes."

"I heard one of them say it would be $100 to $150 a week for one girl and $50 per week for each additional girl," Burns testified.

Asked who was to receive the money, Burns answered, "John Maeras. They both assured me the money was going to John Maeras."

Prior to Burns' testimony

Weiland questioned Burns about the operation of the Club J, on Collinsville Road between Illinois and Park Race Tracks. Burns stated he believes the Club J, which is no longer in operation, was both a tavern and a house of prostitution.

He said Club J was raided in the summer of 1973 by the Southern Illinois Crime Commission, a group of law enforcement officers who concentrated on such crimes and on organized crime.

"I talked to Cooper after the first raid, a day or two later, in Cooper's car. He said there was a very interesting list of license plate numbers and clientele that the crime commission had gathered," Burns said.

"He started to quote Cooper that the information gathered could be embarrassing to some, but the judge upheld an objection to the testimony and the jury was instructed to disregard what Burns had said about the information."

The witness testified that in about February 1974, Club J was being operated as the Paddock Lounge by persons who were leasing it from Walter and Kitty Young, former operators of Club J. Burns said he had verified the ownership through courthouse records.

At that time, sheriff's department officials raided it and arrested "two or three prostitutes and the girl who was tending bar. The prostitutes were charged with prostitution and the bartender was charged with keeping a house of prostitution," Burns said.

Cooper said he had a phone conversation with Walter Young and Walter wanted him to come down. He "young" wanted to talk to him (Cooper).

Burns said Cooper indicated he did not want to talk to Young at Club J, but said he would talk to Young if he would come to the sheriff's department. Cooper "said he was scared of the phone," Burns testified.

He did not get an opportunity to complete his testimony about the raid on Club J until after a meeting with Young in the sheriff's office during his testimony Tuesday, as the questioning turned to a raid on Big Jen's Little Place in Madison — the raid which began a great deal of the investigation which led to the federal indictment.

Burns said members of the sheriff's office were invited to the raid of Madison at the request of Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk to investigate reports there was prostitution at Big Jen's and at Buzz's Place.

He said that he, Glen Newberry and Larry Bull aided Madison Detective Paul Bargiel in "stalking out" the two taverns, but after a few nights, they discovered there was no prostitution activity at that time.

Burns said that since several persons knew of the investigation, the investigators stopped, waited about one month and then resumed it, without telling anyone.

Testimony was interrupted before he had a chance to testify about the raid on Big Jen's and the prostitution arrests there. Burns was excused to resume his testimony Wednesday.

Prior to Burns' testimony

Tuesday, the prosecution called four witnesses, presumably to establish basic groundwork for the government's case.

One of the objectives appeared to be to lay a foundation that the sheriff's department dealt with interstate commerce and, therefore, was within the realm of federal authorities to investigate and prosecute law violations.

The federal government sought to prove that the sheriff's department dealt in interstate commerce by having Edwin Knezevich, director of administration for the new sheriff, Emil Toffant, identify receipts for guns and other items purchased in other states. Toffant succeeded defendant John Maeras as sheriff in December 1978 after Maeras' second four-year term.

Bruce Cook of Belleville, defense attorney for former Sheriff Maeras, showed that the sheriff's department cannot make purchases, and that the county — through the county board, the purchasing department and the county treasurer — actually make all purchases for the department.

Although Federal Judge J. Waldo Ackerman denied a motion to strike Knezevich's testimony from the trial record, some observers felt the government had failed to prove it had jurisdiction through Knezevich's testimony.

Weiland then called Henry Goodson, a salesman for Bo Beuckman Ford in Collinsville, who identified sales receipts and other documents relating to cars purchased by the sheriff's department during the period of the indictment.

In cross-examination, Cook pointed out the cars were purchased after competitive bidding with the county and were paid for by the county treasurer's office.

Other witnesses Tuesday included James Haskell, special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who served a grand jury subpoena on Burns June 10, 1977, at his home in Granite City, and James Wehrheim, special agent in the criminal investigations division of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Wehrheim testified that he had conducted an investigation into the income tax returns of Grzywacz, following a tip that Grzywacz had received payoffs from Maeras, prostitution and had not paid income taxes on those alleged payoffs.

Wehrheim testified he met with Grzywacz four times, beginning Feb. 20, 1974, at the G&G Carwash, which Grzywacz owns.

He testified that on March 29, 1974, a letter from Maeras was received by the IRS which gave Grzywacz clearance to discuss an investigation into alleged prostitution payoffs. Grzywacz said he had conducted for Maeras.

Under cross-examination by Cook, Wehrheim said the letter was brought to him either by Grzywacz or by his attorney, William Brandt of Granite City, when the two of them came to an interview with Wehrheim in East St. Louis.

During cross-examination by Attorney H. Carl Runge, representing Cooper, Wehrheim was accused of having brought Cooper to East St. Louis for a separate interview, without an attorney, on the representation he was going to discuss income tax matters pertaining only to Grzywacz.

Matters concerning Cooper, and not involving Grzywacz, were discussed during that interview, Runge contended.

Under cross-examination by Cook, Wehrheim said that both Grzywacz and Maeras, in separate interviews, indicated that the investigation — Grzywacz, allegedly conducted for Maeras lasted only two to three months, all during 1971.

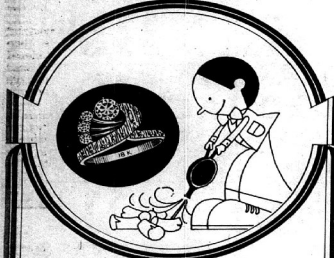

Yet, Cook contended, evidence will show Grzywacz accepted money from Walter and Kitty Young as late as 1973.

Cook, referring to a previous statement, asked Wehrheim if he felt that it was unusual for people to pay income taxes on money they did not receive, and the tax agent agreed this would be unusual.

Cook contended during his opening statement Monday that evidence during the trial will show that Grzywacz had paid about $6,000 to $7,000 in income taxes on payoff money he allegedly received.

Mini-mall blueprints reviewed

Blueprints and tentative exterior drawings of the new Madison "mini-mall" were shown to aldermen Tuesday evening at the Madison City Council meeting by Mayor Mike Sasyk.

Gymnasium dedication

Congressman Melvin Price will dedicate the new Scott Air Force Base gymnasium, naming it the "James Gymnasium," at 10 a.m. Monday, Feb. 12, to honor "an outstanding American who cherished the human traits of strength and fair play" during his life — the late General, Daniel "Chappie" James Jr.

The general's widow, the former Dorothy Watkins of Tuskegee, Ala., heads the list of dignitaries who plan to attend the ceremony.

General William G. Moore Jr., commander-in-chief of the Military Air Force Command, will address those attending the commemoration, hosted by Colonel John A. Dogliano, commander of the 375th Aeromedical Airlift Wing at Scott. The Air Force Band of Mid-America is to open and close the ceremony with patriotic music.

Sasyk named a citizen committee that is necessary under terms of the planned bond sale.

Appointed were Regina Pichocinski, Clarence Green, Andy Economy, John Palchek, George Stentzer, John T. Papa, Jewell Young, John Lee and Helen Daley. According to Mayor Sasyk, as soon as the bonding attorney reports, the city will advertise for bids probably in the latter part of March.

The mini-mall will be located on the northeast corner of Third Street and Madison Avenue, and will include a restaurant, drug store and smaller shops, with off-street parking.

Mayor Sasyk called attention to a new Illinois law forbidding "road-block" solicitations of any kind.

"We feel this law is unfair to many charitable groups and service clubs and we have contacted our local state representatives to see if the bill can be repealed or amended."

"However, I must say that we cannot approve any type of road block solicitation until this law is changed," Sasyk said.

The mayor also informed the council that the legal department is requesting a hearing with the Illinois Commerce Commission on the conditions of railroad crossings, saying some are dangerous.

Wanie Williams dies

Wanie P. Williams, 90, of Mulberry Grove, Ill., formerly of Madison, died at his home at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

He had been ill for more than a year.

Mr. Williams is the father of Kenneth Williams,

Madison, retired principal of the Louis Baer School.

Mr. Williams moved in 1944 from Madison where he operated an ice and coal company for 17 years.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge in Madison.

In addition to his son, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mathilde Williams, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at a Mulberry Grove funeral home.

Burial will be in St. John Cemetery here.

Thomas Gordon made a motion to extend the deadline for purchase of city vehicle stickers, at $3 each, until Wednesday, Feb. 28, due to the weather. The motion was passed.

A letter from Illinois Power Co. requested suggestions from the council on how the power company could better service the area, particularly in heavy ice storms.

The council voted to participate in an areawide clean-up day on Saturday, April 7.

Second Ward Alderman William Gushel asked the city clerk to write the Bi-State Development Agency and inquire about getting one or more bus shelters for McCambridge Avenue.

Gushel said he particularly feels there is a need at the Skene and Rhodes street intersections.

Mayor Sasyk informed the council that on Tuesday, Feb. 20, the Democratic Ladies Organization will serve lunch and host a meeting at noon, and all council members are invited.

paid pension, or any other additions to the annual salary figure.

Age 55 — 100 percent of annual base salary.

56 — 85 percent.

57 — 70 percent.

58 — 60 percent.

59 — 55 percent.

60 through 64 — 50 percent of annual base salary.

A. 61 through 64 — 50 percent of annual base salary divided by the minimum five years with only four years of eligibility remaining; thus, the resulting loss of one-fifth of the 50 percent.

B. 62 through 64 — 50 percent of annual base salary divided by the minimum five years with only three years of eligibility remaining; resulting loss of two-fifths of the 50 percent.

C. 63 through 64 — 50 percent of annual base salary divided by the minimum five years with only two years of eligibility remaining; resulting loss of three-fifths of the 50 percent.

D. 64 until age 65 — 50 percent of annual base salary divided by the minimum five years with only one year of eligibility remaining; thus, the resulting loss of four-fifths of the 50 percent.

Also possible is the option of a one-time payment of 25 percent of the amount reflected in the formula. To do so eliminates all responsibility to the district.

6. This deferred compensation will be divided by and distributed among a minimum of five years and a maximum of ten years with no payment being made after the school year in which a person attains age 65.

(Example 1: Retire at age 56 and receive 85 percent of that year's base salary spread over any consecutive period from five to nine years. Ten years is impossible because no payments are made upon attainment of age 65.)

(Example 2: Retire at age 62 and receive 50 percent of that year's salary spread over the minimum of five years. This person incurs a penalty because at the end of the third year payment ceases because age 65 is attained — 50 percent divided by a minimum of five years and only three years of eligibility remains.)

7. Upon the death of the retiree prior to age 65, the unpaid portion of the early retirement plan will be paid to his estate.

8. Payment will be made quarterly with cost for insurance (if applicable, see 4 above) deducted.

9. Persons selecting early retirement under this plan will be considered under individual contract with District 9 as a consultant until attainment of age 65, with no option to return to regular teaching status or to claim rights under the tenure laws.

These persons will serve the district a maximum of five days per year when mutually agreeable. The consultant activities may include:

A. Demonstration teaching.

B. Working on staff development and in-service programs.

C. Helping with testing programs.

D. Compiling student test data.

E. Orienting and providing aid to new teachers.

F. Updating curriculum guides and other learning materials.

G. Assisting at registrations and pre-registrations.

H. Substitute teaching.

10. Upon completion of their activities as consultants, early retirees may be placed among the substitute teachers listed for compensation at the regular applicable rate.

were in Jonesboro in the extreme southern part of the state. The fourth meeting took place at Charleston on Sept. 18.

The fifth, sixth and seventh debates were held in the western portion of the state — at Galesburg on Oct. 7, Quincy on Oct. 13, and Alton on Oct. 15.

In addition to formal debates, the contestants spoke separately almost every day. Lincoln traveled constantly, speaking in many towns throughout Illinois.

By 1858, railroad transportation had not yet reached all parts of the state, and the debaters often had to resort to horse, carriage or steamboat to reach their destinations.

When Douglas rode on the Illinois Central Railroad, however, he always had a private car and sometimes a special train. Lincoln sometimes traveled on a freight train.

At the cities hosting the debates, Douglas was met by a brass band and escorted to the hotel. Lincoln, in contrast, was carried through the streets on a farm wagon.

In Ottawa, Douglas opened with his characteristic aggressiveness. Lincoln and Lyman Trumbull, Douglas charged, had conspired to dissolve the old Whig and Democratic parties and gather the members of both into an abolition party, the Republicans.

Douglas asked the following questions of Lincoln: (1) whether Lincoln stood in favor of unconditional repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law; (2) whether he was against the admission of any more slave states to the union; (3) whether he favored abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia.

Lincoln answered the questions, apparently to the audience's satisfaction.

Then he turned to the Dred Scott decision. Lincoln asked the audience to pay attention to Douglas's speeches on how slavery could become a national institution.

Lincoln said that if the Supreme Court decided that a state cannot exclude slavery, as it had already declared in either Congress or a territorial legislature could exclude it, slavery could exist throughout the country — regardless of the will of the people.

Freeport, located in northern Illinois, was strongly Republican. There Lincoln spoke on the questions put to him at Ottawa.

He answered the questions as he had found them printed in the Chicago Times. Then Lincoln framed four questions for Douglas, the second of which was, "Can the people of a United States Territory, in any lawful way, against the wish of any citizen of the United States, exclude slavery from its limits prior to the formation of a State Constitution?"

Douglas's reply became known as the Freeport Doctrine: that people can lawfully exclude slavery prior to the formation of a state constitution because slavery cannot exist unless it is supported by local police regulations.

As soon as he said this, Douglas knew that his answer conflicted with the Supreme Court's decision in the Dred Scott case.

The Jonesboro area, site of the third debate, was settled by southerners. This region was pro-slavery and heavily Democratic. It was here that Douglas stressed his position on the Negro. He stated that the Negro should not be allowed citizenship.

Douglas hoped to make Lincoln state his position on the Negro, but Lincoln ignored it and dwelt instead on Douglas's Freeport Doctrine.

At Charleston, the debaters devoted much of their time to the subject of Lyman Trumbull in the United States Senate.

Lincoln did declare his position on the Negro, saying he was not in favor of bringing equality to Negroes politically or socially. He didn't think they would ever be voters or officeholders.

At Galesburg on Oct. 7, both debaters discussed all the issues in the campaign. Each began to work out a summation of his position.

Douglas defined the difference between the two parties, saying the Democrats were a national party and the Republicans were a sectional party.

Lincoln countered by saying that any sectionalism in the Republican party existed simply because the people in the southern states would not allow Republican doctrine to be preached in the South, and their lack of acceptance did not mean that those doctrines were wrong.

Lincoln refined his summation at Quincy and spoke of the Dred Scott case, saying that although he disagreed with the Supreme Court decision, he was not advocating any violent resistance to it. Douglas still would not declare whether he considered slavery morally right or wrong.

In the Alton debate, Douglas maintained that states had a right to decide on slavery for themselves.

Lincoln agreed with this statement, but he continued to demand an answer on whether slavery was morally wrong.

Douglas stuck to his contention that any territory that wanted slaves had the right to have them.

Before the adoption in 1913 of Article XVII of the federal Constitution, United States senators were elected by the state legislatures.

Although Lincoln got four thousand more votes from the people than Douglas did, the Illinois General Assembly had not been reapportioned to reflect the growing population in the northern counties where Lincoln's strength was greatest.

The state legislature returned Douglas to Congress. As a result of the debates, however, Lincoln became a national figure and two years later became a presidential candidate.

current system and that a central administrator could more ably speak for funding requests submitted to the Board of Higher Education, the General Assembly and the governor.

The committee last night also recommended launching a nationwide search to fill the proposed new position.

Over 100 professors and students

Mrs. Margaret Blackshire, formerly of Madison, an SIU trustee and SIUE graduate and a member of the five-person governance study committee, said, "Some of you don't believe it, but we're going to keep SIUE on its current mission. We won't give that up."

Clear way to repair 'one of worst' sewer breaks

A major sewer break that will require between 800 and 900 feet of pipe replacement will be made by the City Street Department as a result of action taken by the City Council Tuesday night.

Street Superintendent Lionel Portell said the break in the sanitary sewer line at the entrance to Anchorage Homes, just off Edwards Street, as one of the worst breaks the city has experienced.

Portell said the repair work will have to span three manholes and is expected to present difficulties since the sanitary line at that point is 16 to 17 feet underground.

The council cleared the way for beginning the work, as soon as weather permits, by acceptance of a single bid to furnish the city with pipe needed for the repair.

The bid by Sidener Supply Co. of Granite City offered the material at $6.90 per foot if picked up and $7.20 per foot delivered.

The council accepted both prices, noting that the street department could pick up the pipe or have it delivered if a pickup could not be made.

Portell said work could start on the replacement as soon as weather permits thawing so that the ground can be excavated.

The Anchorage Homes break occurred nearly two years ago and the break has been by-passed by pumping for a year and a half, Portell said.

The work will be financed by Community Development funds and should take from two to three months to complete with part-time employees.

Council members also accepted a bid of the Curt Oden Equipment Co. of St. Louis to provide a mobile shower to be installed at the Street Department garage for use by employees.

The company bid $21,250 for the shower unit and offered an optional 50 lockers at $60 each, or $3,000.

Because a figure of $20,000 was set up in the budget for the shower installation, council members agreed to eliminate the locker purchase at this time and possibly negotiate a purchase with the company later.

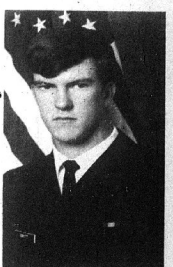

City Engineer Monroe Brewer informed the aldermen that the Illinois Department of Transportation has turned down for the present a city request that the DOT take over maintenance of the 20 electric traffic signals in Granite City.

The city asked the state to take over all of the signals after the DOT assumed maintenance of three additional signals, making a total of five handled by the state.

Brewer said the DOT informed him that since the DOT has assumed maintenance of signals in many communities, the work has increased by 85 percent and there is not sufficient manpower to handle any additions now.

Brewer said he was informed that as the maintenance program levels off, the state may consider another application by Granite City.

In the Navy for four years, he has re-enlisted for another six years. He is the son of Jeff Knott, 2800 Emize Ave., and Mrs. Thelma Knott, 2907 Roosevelt Ave., and she is the daughter of Harold Shockley of Cahokia.

The case involved an incident allegedly occurring July 9, 1977, at K-Mart store in Granite City.

Miss Wagner was released on payment of a $40 cash bond at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Van burglary at shopping center

A van belonging to Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., Alton, operated by John Kopechak, 3204 Aubrey Ave., was burglarized at 8 p.m. Tuesday, while the vehicle was parked in Schnuck's Market lot at Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center.

Police promotions, training

Capt. Robert Astorian of the Granite City Police Department will attend the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy at Quantico, Va., under an "invitation" to the city to assign an officer to the school. City Council members agreed in a regular meeting Tuesday night.

At the request of Chief of Police Ronald Veizer, the council approved an expense fee of $750 for the 11 weeks schooling between April 1 and June 15. "This invitation is an honor to Granite City," Veizer told the aldermen. "I have been trying for several years to get an officer into the school."

Veizer said the federal government pays transportation, lodging and meal costs and the city's only obligation is to pay $750 in expense funds that will be required over the 11-week period.

"Upon graduation, I hope to assign Capt. Astorian as an investigator, particularly in arson cases and sex crimes," Veizer told the council. It will be the first time that Granite City has had an opportunity to send an officer to the academy, the chief noted.

Astorian now is captain in charge of the detective division. He started his career with the Police Department in May 1962. He was assigned to the St. Louis Major Case Squad in March 1967. He served through 1970 and was reassigned to that squad in 1977.

He was named a detective in 1973 and was promoted to sergeant in 1974 when he returned to the patrol division. He was promoted to lieutenant May 1977 and was named captain in September 1977.

He has received 14 letters of commendation and has attended numerous schools, including Major Case Squad training each year from 1967 to 1970 and again in 1977.

Astorian also has completed basic police training (1964), fingerprint school (1967), radiological monitoring (1969), police teletype (1969), Vascor radar (1973) and Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission training (1975).

He also received his associate's degree in law enforcement from Belleville Area College in 1973 and his bachelor of arts degree in human sciences from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1975.

In related actions, the council also promoted two police officers and appointed a probationary patrolman on recommendations of the Granite City Board of Fire and Police Commissioners.

In another, the aldermen authorized Mayor Paul Schuler to apply for a $22,000 mini-block grant by the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, for which Veizer said the city is eligible. The grant will permit the city to appoint another officer in the Police Department, Veizer said. Acting on recommendations contained in a letter by Elmer Miller, chairman of the fire and police board, the council concurred in the promotion of Sgt. George Gallas to the rank of lieutenant to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Lt. Michael Devine, and promoted Detective Roy Kobarna to the rank of sergeant.

The aldermen also concurred in a recommendation for appointment of Michael B. Chosich as a probationary patrolman, effective Feb. 16.

Sheriff office used for racketeering prosecutor

By GARY SCHNEIDER Press-Record Staff Writer
"Bear in mind that this is a simple case of the highest ranking officer in Madison County and a chief officer of a law enforcement agency, who is using his position to extract money from the citizens of Madison County. Testimony will show this man paid them well and that the cost to the citizens was high," U.S. Attorney Gerald D. Fines told a jury Monday afternoon.

It was the government's opening statement in the trial of former Sheriff John Maeras, Capt. John Cooper, Leland Stoller and Lee Stoller Enterprises, Inc., at Alton.

The jury of 12 men and three women, including three alternate jurors, was selected during a three-hour session Monday morning and was sworn in after a lunch break.

Federal District Judge J. Waldo Ackerman said a motion that the jurors be sequestered, but warned newspaper accounts of the trial and to avoid discussing or overhearing others discussing the case.

It was announced that the attorneys estimate the trial will take three to four weeks and that the government's case, alone, may take up to three weeks.

Fines gave the opening statement for the government, saying testimony the prosecution plans to offer should show a developing "story" which began in the late fall of 1970 when Maeras was elected sheriff and the Madison County Deputy Sheriff's Association was formed, "which years later came to serve as the basis of the indictment."

The prosecutor said there is "one continuous thread through all of this, and it is that the Madison County Sheriff's Office was used for racketeering purposes."

Fines contended that after Maeras was elected, he "quickly decided to extract tolls from the businesses operating illegally," including houses of prostitution, taverns and towing companies, it was alleged.

Maeras met with former Madison County Policeman Ronald Grzywacz early in 1971 at a bar where Maeras was a regular. Maeras asked Grzywacz to be his "bagman," Fines contended, adding, "Grzywacz will tell you he went to work for Maeras as a bagman." The prosecutor asserted Grzywacz and Pete Skundrich went to "shake down" a low truck operator, which was "a disaster, because he refused to pay."

At that time, Cooper joined with Grzywacz and then solicited and received payoffs from the Club J. Myrene's Steakhouse and the U.S. Attorney, Fines alleged.

"Cooper was immersed in this collection operation from the very beginning," Fines alleged.

The U.S. attorney also said that Cooper knew Stoller, and that Cooper and Deputy Gary Lee Burns (a former chief of detectives for Maeras) entered into an agreement with Stoller for Lee Stoller Enterprises "to collect money under the guise of charitable contributions."

"Over the years, this developed with the complete acquiescence and agreement of Sheriff John Maeras," Fines said he intends to introduce "evidence to show how they plotted to avoid discovery and to avoid prosecution."

He said the people of Madison County did not know that a portion of their charitable contributions "would go to John Maeras." Fines said he intends to introduce "evidence to show how they plotted to avoid discovery and to avoid prosecution."

He said an investigation by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service into Grzywacz's income tax statement "triggered a story made up by Maeras and Cooper that Grzywacz was conducting an investigation for Maeras."

He also said Burns and Grzywacz both perjured themselves in testimony to the IRS and coached Grzywacz and Burns to obstruct justice and commit perjury, he alleged.

"Many who will testify were very close to the criminal activity in this case. Some will be reluctant witnesses," Fines predicted. Brian Cook of Belleville, attorney for Maeras, presented the first argument for the defense, saying he felt the 26-count federal indictment is anything but "a simple case."

"If this was a simple case, I could say it should take a day or two to try. I don't think it's that simple. 'We've been charged with this case for less than 60 days. The government has had it for nine years.'"

He said many of the allegations go back to 1970, and that most memories are not that dependable on activities which occurred nine years ago.

Cook said there is evidence that prior to 1970, when Maeras was still county treasurer, "Madison County had continued, and still continuing, problems. The sheriff's office then was a patronage office."

"The deputies, and even the state police, at times, evidence indicates, would call low truck operators. And, if they appreciated the business, they would give them a few bucks," Cook contended.

"Maeras set up a program where deputies no longer had to choose who to call, thereby virtually eliminating this problem. He eliminated it early in his career," Cook told the jury.

He added, "There were, in fact, houses of prostitution. Prostitution and gambling are old crimes and difficult to stop, because there is no victim. The person (victim) usually doesn't object to it. 'These are very difficult crimes to stop. In one state (Nevada), both are legal,' he said. However, Cook contended, "Instead of Maeras charging tolls on prostitution, he made an effort, with other departments, to stamp out this problem and evidence should show he was almost completely successful."

"Sheriff Maeras left a clean slate when he took office. Indeed, he did put these houses of prostitution out of business."

"We are here, principally, because of Grzywacz, Burns and, to a lesser extent, (former Madison Policeman Edward) Goclan. Witnesses will testify that my client was involved in some skullduggery, was involved in some wrongdoing and that they (the witnesses) were very close to it."

"Evidence will show they got so close that their names got caught in it. They have been convicted of perjury—lying under oath," Cook said.

He said the judge's instructions to the jury should include orders that the testimony of persons already convicted of perjury "is to be considered in a different light than other people."

"They have already lied. They could do it again," Cook contended.

Responding to Fines' statements that Grzywacz and Burns will be among the witnesses, Cook said, "We will be able to show you some very, very strong reasons—even compelling reasons—to lie."

"He (Grzywacz) not only admitted he lied, but he stole, falsified his income tax—that he has been convicted of—and some other matters."

"We expect to show that a very money he (Grzywacz) took and said he gave to Maeras, he paid income tax, about $6,000 to $7,000, on it," Cook said.

The attorney said evidence will be presented to show that while Grzywacz was allegedly out "shaking down" business establishments for the sheriff, Maeras was shutting them (the businesses) down.

"During this time" Cook said, "Grzywacz was driving around in a Mark Five, a Cadillac convertible and a recreational vehicle and owned a clubhouse on the Lake of the Ozarks while working as a Madison policeman. Maeras was driving a 1972 Ford during this time."

"The beginning of the fall Mr. Grzywacz, Cook said, "was caused when the Madison County Sheriff's Department sent in, on the request of (Madison Mayor) Mike Sarsky, his friend, because of rumors of payoffs in Madison. The sheriff sent people down and they caught Grzywacz."

He stated that Grzywacz "now has made a deal with the federal government and we will show evidence of what Sarsky, his friend, testimony against my client (Maeras)."

"Burns will testify, too," Cook said. "This is not a one-liner case. This is a three perjury case."

"Any testimony against my client will come from a perjured witness. Burns has a reason to lie. He's in trouble. He's in a lot of trouble," Cook said. At one time during the discussion, he described Burns as "a beast."

Speaking of the Madison County Deputy Sheriff's Association, Cook contended it was started before Maeras took office as "a kind of a union" to protect the jobs of the deputies when the new sheriff took over.

Since then, the deputies have joined Operating Engineers Local 520, he explained.

"Stoller will testify that he and Maeras just barely knew each other," he stated, adding that Maeras had no control over the operations of the deputies when the new sheriff took over.

Cook warned jurors that the presentation of government evidence may take as long as three weeks and asked them not to form opinions on the innocence or guilt of Maeras, Cooper and Stoller until the defense has an opportunity to present its side.

He said he intends to prove that Maeras did not engage in any illegal use of the mails or telephones, particularly in business related to the deputies' association. "I don't think they are going to be able to prove that there was any fraud involved," he predicted.

He said the last six counts of the 26-count indictment deal with Grzywacz telling lies to the IRS and the last count alleges that Burns lied to a grand jury.

Both men will contend, "But they made me do it," Cook speculated. He said he believes defense testimony will refute that.

Cook also said he intends to show that Grzywacz started out making a legitimate investigation for the sheriff, which "then went sour."

He stipulated that Maeras signed a letter to the Internal Revenue Service saying Grzywacz was conducting an investigation for him, but alleged that Maeras did not write the letter; Cooper also did not write the letter, and neither delivered it to the IRS, Cook said.

"We'll show who did it and who took it to the IRS," Cook revealed. He also pointed out the length and complexity of the federal indictment, and referred to Fines' statement that it was a simple case.

The defense attorney contended that the government could not construct a simple indictment against the three, so they decided to "throw a lot at them," hoping to confuse the jury.

H. Carl Runge of Collinsville, attorney for Cooper, was invited to make the next opening statement, but reserved his comments for the start of the defense after the prosecution concludes its case.

Michael Costello of Springfield, who represents Stoller and Lee Stoller Enterprises, Inc., then gave the jury his opening defense statement. "There is one issue in this case: Was Lee Stoller and Lee Stoller Enterprises, Inc., guilty?"

He continued, "We are charged with being part and parcel of accepting the payoffs Grzywacz did. Part and parcel for this beauty Burns. Charged with (allowing) prostitution and gambling and payoffs from low trucks that have been taking place in this county."

Costello said that from documents given him, "it appears Burns thinks Stoller did something. That's why we were indicted."

He urged the jury to consider Stoller and Stoller Enterprises separate from Maeras and Cooper.

Judge Ackerman closed the day's activities at 3:05 p.m. Monday, noting that the trial will continue every day except Mondays, Feb. 12 and 19, and possibly Tuesday, Feb. 27.

Joint Lenten services

The Niedringhaus Methodist Church, the St. Peter United Church of Christ and the First United Presbyterian Church will join to offer to the members of the three churches and the community six Wednesday night worship Lenten services, beginning on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m.

The first two worship services will be at the Niedringhaus Methodist Church, the next two will be at St. Peter United Church of Christ, and the last two will be at the First United Presbyterian Church.

As in previous years, each church will provide the music, the ushers, the organist, and the choir. The first time at each church, there will be a moment of fellowship and the tea following the Lenten worship service.

Each year the three churches have remembered the "Heifer Project International" which is a plan by which the undernourished and underprivileged are remembered and given a living gift in the form of some animal. The last three years the three churches and friends in the community have raised over $1,000 each year, which enables this project to be consummated. Child care facilities will be provided at each service and a welcome is being extended to all of the memberships of the three churches and the community in general. This year the services will consider the Seven Last Words of the Cross.

The dates and the places are: Feb. 28 and March 7, Niedringhaus Methodist Church; March 14 and March 21, St. Peter United Church of Christ, and March 28 and April 4, First United Presbyterian Church. All services will be at 7:30 p.m.

Arrested for damaging cars and GC tavern

Robert L. Hausman, 26, who said he resides at the YMCA, was charged with damage to city property and with four counts of criminal damage to property after a disturbance at 10:20 p.m. Friday at Hook's Tavern, 25th Street and Madison Ave.

There was extensive damage to the tavern's restroom, including holes in a door and the wall, a broken toilet stool, a towel machine pulled from the wall and other damage. Three autos in the parking lot had their antennas broken off. The cars belonged to Jess McGinnis, 3141 Jill Ave., Mike Modrusic, 2036 Pontoon Road, and George Barnett, 2520 Grand Ave. A windshield wiper on Barnett's auto also was broken. Police found a disturbance under way in the parking lot, arrested Hausman and placed him in the back seat of a squad car. Officers alleged he kicked out the right rear door window of the police car and had to be handcuffed and taken to an Alton hospital.

That hospital refused to admit him and he was returned from Alton and jailed at the Granite City Police Department, from where he was transferred Monday afternoon to the Madison County Jail.

Three Cub Scouts earn Catholic award

Three Cub Scouts, Steve Buhmann, Jeff Kittel and Ricky Buhmann, all members of Cub Scout Pack 7, sponsored by St. Joseph Church, were presented during the mass Sunday with the Parvuli Dei award.

The award is a Roman Catholic medal which the church presents to Cub Scouts who accomplish certain church related tasks.

Parvuli Dei translated to English from Latin means "Little Children of God," according to Dr. J. R. Vasiloff, scouting coordinator for St. Joseph Church.

During the mass, Dr. Vasiloff also presented the official Cub Scout Pack and Boy Scout Troop charters to Father Victor Chateauvert, MSP, pastor, Cubmaster Carl Kittel and Brother Robert Manzer, MSP, the scoutmaster.

After the Celebration of the Scout Mass, families of the Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts attended a reception in the church basement.

A burglar "tore apart" a stereo at the home of Gerald Dover, 2434 Ohio Ave., it was reported at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday. Entry into the dwelling was gained by prying a window in the rear door and unlocking the lock. Nothing else appeared to be disturbed.

SCOUT CHARTER is presented this week to St. Joseph Church as sponsors of Boy Scout Troop 7 and Cub Scout Pack 7 during the mass. From left are: Cubmaster Carl Kittel, Dr. J. R. ## GC man faces 3 charges

Max D. Emerson, 39, of 2929 Willow Ave., was charged with aggravated assault, battery and not having a firearm owner's identification card this week.

Emerson was arrested at his home where police were called by the man's son, who alleged his father had threatened his mother with a weapon.

An officer said he attempted to enter the house, but the front door was locked. He reported observing a woman inside trying to get to the door, who was stopped by a man. Learning against a wall was a rifle, the officer reported.

The police officer said that as he entered through an unlocked rear door, accompanied by the son, Emerson told him, "Everything is OK."

The officer reported he continued inside, picked up the 22 caliber rifle and found the woman and her 16-year-old daughter locked in the bathroom.

Mrs. Emerson told police an argument had erupted at a bowling lanes and had continued upon arriving home.

She alleged her husband placed the rifle against her head and stated, "I'll show you what I can do." He then allegedly pointed the weapon at her stomach.

After telling her son to go next door and call police, she alleged Emerson struck her on the head and kicked her in the legs.

The officer confiscated a .22 caliber rifle and 12 shells, a .22 caliber automatic weapon and clip and a 20-gauge shotgun from the dwelling.

Pesticide clinic

A clinic for professional pesticide dealers or applicators will be held Tuesday, Feb. 13, at the Holiday Inn at Collinsville. The program will be from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Exams for Illinois custom spray applicators and operators licenses will be offered free by Illinois State Department of Agriculture personnel. Those issued an applicator's exam in 1973 or before will need to be certified again in 1979.

The clinic is not for individuals who want to obtain a private pesticide applicator's license. It is for professionals who sell or apply pesticides to farm crops.

The clinic will open with a study session for the exams. The day's program will cover weed control, corn and soybean nematodes, restricted use pesticides, use of fungicides, postemergence applicators, control of European corn borer and grasshoppers and the Illinois pesticide laws and regulations.

Exams will be given at 3 p.m. There will be a $2 registration fee for the clinic to cover material costs.

The clinic is sponsored by the University of Illinois, the Illinois Natural History Survey and the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

The Rev. Patrick Fife and the Rev. Roy Johnson officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Soloist Kevin Koontz sang, "Sometimes," "The Wedding Song" and "The Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Jodi Alexander.

The long slender sleeves repeated the lace and pearls throughout the long skirt. The hemline was bordered with a deep flounce of Brussels lace, and the skirt ended in a full-sleeved cathedral train.

A Juliet cap of matching Brussels lace was secured to a fingertip veil edged in tulle.

Sandra Blankenship, maid of honor, and bridesmaids Sharon Wise, Elaine Baur, Nancy Barnett, Liz Barnabe and Carolyn Brown chose identically-styled gowns of burgundy giana, with long slashed sleeves tied at the cuffs, and gathered necklines. The long skirts were designed with tiny pleats.

Each attendant carried a long-stemmed wine-colored rose with a baby's breath, greenery, and burgundy and white ribbons. They wore burgundy and white baby's breath in their hair.

Danny Huffaker and Carl McKay served as ushers. Eric Wise and Christopher Short, nephews of the groom, were ringbearer and candlelighter, respectively.

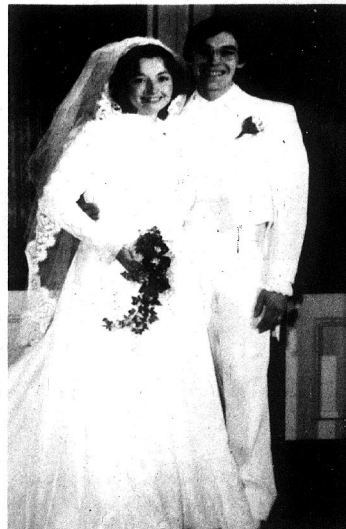

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hendrickson chose a long gown of pastel pink knit with an empire waist and a high neckline. A long-sleeved capelet of sheer pink chiffon covered the top of her gown. She wore a white orchid trimmed in pink.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Popilchak, wore a long blue knit gown with a matching jacket of lace and chiffon. Her skirt was designed in tie pleats. She wore an orchid trimmed in blue.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall directly after the ceremony, with Miss Linda Beluin presiding over the guest book.

Venice grade school chosen for new study

Venice Grade School has been informed by Lydia Alston of the System Development Corporation of Santa Monica, Calif., that it is one of forty schools chosen for an observation sub-study in connection with a human relations study.

Robert N. Vickers, superintendent, Venice Community Unit District, and Mrs. Anna McKinney, principal, said Friday that Venice Grade School will participate in a nationwide study sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education.

It is one of many nationally eligible schools receiving funds through the Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA), a law designed to provide assistance in desegregation. A portion of these funds is intended to be used in development of human relations programs to improve intergroup relations in ESAA funded schools.

As a result of a survey conducted last year, Venice Grade School was one of 128 elementary schools across the country identified as exemplars of varied human relations program types in a variety of settings.

One of the main purposes of the study for the current year is to examine human relations programs more closely.

The U.S. Office of Education is interested in the kinds of activities that are being implemented under ESAA and what effect they may have on intergroup relations in schools.

In addition, interest has been expressed in the relationship between these activities and the characteristics of the schools and students receiving the benefits of the services.

Mrs. Althea A. Cross, director of Venice's Title VII Project Micro, will be serving as the school's liaison with the SDC staff for the duration of the study. With her assistance, SDC will collect information on the human relations program by using questionnaires and tests.

In the interest of privacy, specific students, schools or districts will not be identified. Information will be

Man faces 3 charges

A man who asked police to arrest him after refusing to leave a dwelling at 1321 Rhodes St., at 9:15 p.m. Monday, was booked on a disorderly conduct charge and later was charged on two other complaints from previous incidents.

Nicholas S. Stanley, 20, of 719 Twenty-seventh Pl., started walking away when confronted by police, but then halted and insisted on being arrested, an officer stated.

Upon reaching headquarters, it was found Stanley was the subject of two requests for complaints stemming from incidents allegedly happening earlier that day.

A complaint charging battery was signed by Sarah L. Stone, 1321 Rhodes St., who alleged Stanley beat her early Monday.

The second complaint, alleging criminal damage to property, was signed by Eddie Holt of the same address, who said Stanley made holes in three plasterboard walls at the Rhodes Street residence.

Chamber sponsors citywide clean-up

The Community Pride Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, headed by Lacey Randolph of American Steel Foundries, has about completed its plans for the annual Tri-Cities Area Clean-Up Day which will be held on April 7, and participated in by some 1,000 Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts from the area.

The clean-up will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon. The Scouts will be divided into groups and given an area to clean up. Each troop will have an adult leader, and all will be connected by CB radio furnished by the REACT Club so that leaders can keep in touch while the operation is being performed.

This will be an all-out effort by the Scouts, under the direction of Ned Freeman of the Boy Scouts and Karen Spohn of the Girl Scouts. Other Scout groups are being asked to cooperate.

The Scouts will pick up only the trash that can be put in bags which are being furnished by McDonald's, who also will furnish a bag of French fries and refreshments for every bag of trash brought in. Pepsi-Cola also will cooperate on refreshments an official said. Cities will furnish trucks and drivers to haul off the trash, and it is hoped that once the area is cleaned up, all citizens then will cooperate in an all-out effort to keep it clean, the spokesman added.

In the Granite City area, the main thrust will be to clean up the entrance areas to the city, where a lot of trash has accumulated, but the Scouts will not get in the street at any point.

They also will clean up the downtown area and may decide even to sweep the sidewalks, both in the downtown Granite City area and in the Madison shopping area.

The program idea was conceived as a Scout effort which was picked up and arranged by the Community Pride Committee. Randolph said he is asking for the complete cooperation of local citizens.

He received an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Eden Theological Seminary in 1963, and has been honored with citations from the George Warren Brown School of Social Work at Washington University and by the Washington U. Alumni and the Council for Health and Welfare.

The organization which he spearheads has the formal title of Board for Inner City Missions of the United Church of Christ in Metropolitan St. Louis.

The board consists of 30 members—10 elected by the Missionary Federation, two are elected by the Missouri Conference, the statewide fellowship of United Churches of Christ; one is named by the Board for Homeland Ministries, a national denominational body, and five are elected by the Disciples Council.

All are named for three years and are eligible for reelection to one additional term, Dr. Huber said.

Major programs include: Group services to all ages from 3 years old to adults, such as teen clubs, junior leaders' programs and day camp for elementary age children during the summer and Day Care centers.

Family Services, providing social services and counseling for individuals and families; Community Organization, in which help is given to neighborhoods to organize, articulate their needs and improve their circumstances.

Resident Camping, and a multitude of other services such as emergency help with food, Thrift Shops, housing for the elderly and consultation for community agencies, Dr. Huber explained.

The UCCNH is financed primarily by The United Way, The Missionary Federation, direct giving from individuals and churches of various denomination, estates and bequests and government grants, whenever they can be enlisted for specific programs, he pointed out.

The organization administers seven centers of missions, a day camp site near Allenton, Mo., the Tambo Community Environmental Homes and Lafayette Towne Management, the latter comprising 163 units of family and adult homes for low income persons in St. Louis.

Dr. Huber is a charter member of the Academy of Certified Social Workers, a past president of the Commission on Benevolent Institutions of the Evangelical and Reformed Church; a member of the Missouri Conference Health and Welfare and Camping committees; Child Day Care Association Directors, National Health Legislation and the St. Louis Housing Authority's Social Services Committee.

He also serves as field instructor for St. Louis and Washington universities and St. Louis Community College Faculty.

Nameoki Presbyterian forms new young adult organization

A new young adult organization will be formed in the Nameoki United Presbyterian Church at a pot-luck kick-off dinner Saturday evening at 6 o'clock.

The group will be affiliating with the National Mariners, according to Bill and Nona Corzilius, skippers of a similar group that initiated the new organization.

A steering committee composed of Steve and Gail Dale, Ray and Judy Hanks, and Jim and Mary Ruth Snelson are planning the event.

Plans are already under way for a March "Sports Recognition Banquet," reflecting the strong interest of the large number of young adults that is participating in the church affiliated athletic teams.

These include a men's basketball team, a men's bowling team, men's and women's softball teams and a co-ed volleyball team.

The National Presbyterian Mariners is a national organization with active area units. It provides fellowship for the sharing of ideas and programs, stimulating personal and family growth.

A welcome to both single and married people is being extended to the young adults of the church and community by Steve and Gail Dale, spokesmen for the steering committee.

The Nameoki Presbyterian Church is located at 1700 Pontoon Road. The Rev. Don F. Pierson is the pastor.

Students raise uniform money

GCHS North band students have made a total of $588 toward their summer uniform supplements through a concert and other activities.

The students are devoting time and effort to raise funds for their uniforms, and helping them are their parents and the Band Boosters.

The students took part in a storewide inventory. Other organizations of the school system participating were South and North Future Homemakers groups and the South Boys' Letterman Club. The total raised by all groups amounted to $1,308.

Madison group may call federal agencies

Members of the Madison Business Association (MBA), at a meeting Tuesday morning, expressed the opinion that the group may need to appeal to federal regulatory agencies, picket a telephone office and contact state officials over Illinois Bell Telephone Co. errors in the December 1978 directory.

When asked by Tillie Nornberg, "Where do we stand now with the telephone company?" Wayne Scannell, president of MBA, said, "Well, they do not have a representative here today as they said they would try to do. They are going to call me this afternoon about the meeting."

"Since our last meeting, what's happened is nothing. I have had three meetings with them."

"I was told the printers will contact each merchant each merchant individually and make adjustments in the bill for yellow-page ads."

"I was told we have to pay for the white pages, but that we do not have to pay for any errors in the yellow pages. Even if the white pages are wrong, you have to pay or they will disconnect your phone," Scannell said. "The Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce is interested in this. The telephone company may want everyone to think the errors are limited to Madison and Venice, but they aren't," Scannell said.

One merchant commented that his December 1978 business was $4,000 below that of December 1977.

Scannell said, "We'll have one more meeting with them. We'll do whatever it takes to get them to correct the errors now, not next year. I want every MBA member and anyone else who has an error to be present."

The meeting was called for 8 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 14, in the Madison Memorial Center, Seventh and Lee streets, Madison.

Other items of business discussed at the meeting included Valentine's Day and Washington's birthday; assisting the city in obtaining new Christmas decorations; the effect of burglar alarms and additional police protection for merchants; and the hiring of private security and off-duty police near closing hours.

Fired-up North takes it out on East, 55-44

By DOUG IRVIN
for the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — An 11-point advantage at the close of the first quarter aided the Granite City North Steelers defeat the Lancers of Belleville East, 55-44 here Tuesday night. That lead was enlarged, then cut, but the game ended with an 11-point difference.

North shot 25 of 56 from the field for 45 percent and for 50 percent from the line. East only shot 18 out of 45 for 36 percent and for 50 percent from the line — eight out of 16.

North had its advantages working for it and the Steelers had East's ill-luck working for themselves, too. Fernando Goss, the Lancers' top scorer this season, was unable to play in the contest which may have decidedly curbed the outcome of the game.

Dennis Page, a six-foot junior guard for North took most of the credit for 25 points and 6 1/2 rebounds. Forward, Mike Robertson, took the remainder with 20 of his own points. The total of both those two Steelers would have sufficed to beat the off-balance Lancers.

"Anytime your leading scorer isn't in the game — it's a different team, but you have to give us credit for winning," said Steeler mentor Bill Ohlendorf. East challenged North's lead late in the ball game. The Lancers brought the one-time 20 point lead down to six (42-36) with less than a quarter to play. But North retaliated and regained its hard-earned lead.

When asked if he thought that North might have given up its lead, Ohlendorf replied, "We've given up leads late in games before and that really hurt us in some of our earlier games. But, we didn't tonight that's what counts."

North struck first blood with a 12-foot jumper by Page, followed by a layup by Robertson, before Belleville could muster even a shot.

One would think that North had the entire game in the bag when they finished the first period with its 11-point lead, but East wouldn't let North take it for granted.

Even at halftime North still had the all-important lead and momentum. The Steelers were on top by 15 when the two teams scurried off to their respective locker rooms followed only by their coaches. At that time, North 32 and East 17.

Goss wasn't the only factor that East didn't possess — North had many a noisy fan in the crowd which may have affected the performances of some of the athletes.

"Our student body has been showing a positive reaction to my and to Gilbert Walsley's (North principal) request to show spirit at athletic games," said Ohlendorf. "You've got to be cold-blooded in a hell, not to react to the crowds."

The two teams traded buckets at the beginning of the third quarter and East got a five point advantage at the end of that period, 42-32.

The fourth quarter was when the Lancers localized their problem — they were losing — and started to do something about it. They, with two early baskets, reduced the deficit to six points. North returned it to ten, then with four charity tosses it was again reduced to six.

Nine points later, North emerged victoriously by downing the Lancers by 11 which set North's record at 4-12. Many would think, by just watching this game, that the record should be 12-4 and not the other way around.

Friday night, North hosts the Raiders from Quincy Notre Dame. The varsity game will start shortly after the jayvee contest at about 8 p.m.

Devils get TKO over Waterloo Gibault

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

VENICE — If the Venice High basketball team ever manages to get its act together, area foes had better take notice.

Tuesday night here, before a packed house, Venice's Red Devils fumbled shot and punched their way to a 30-point victory over Waterloo Gibault, 87-57. But Head Coach Ken Perkins wasn't 100 percent satisfied, despite the fact that his squad upped its record to 12-8 after an 0-6 start.

"We played well at times," he said. "In fact, we got some very fine games out of a couple of individuals.

"But team-wise, we still haven't meshed yet. But I think we improve in one area or another every game."

The game was marred by a near-fight between Venice's Ron Salmond and Steve Sexauer of Gibault midway through the fourth quarter.

With Venice ahead 73-44, things looked hopeless for Gibault with only 4:37 remaining in the game. As the Hawks brought the ball down the floor, it was intercepted by Venice's Reggie Mathis. He passed upcourt to Salmond, who was all alone racing for the basket. The crowd cheered as it rose to its feet. Slam-dunk time.

But Sexauer, who was trailing Salmond, came from behind and pushed the 6'3" jumping-jack. In retaliation, Salmond turned around in mid-air and threw the basketball directly at Sexauer's face. He got his slam without the dunk.

Salmond was whistled for a technical foul and was benched for the remainder of the game by Perkins. "I told him there are better ways of retaliating," said Perkins. "Just out playing him would have been enough."

Gibault got a five-point play out of the situation. How? Mathis had been called for charging just before he passed off to Salmond. The entire altercation had taken place during a dead ball situation.

"I hate to see things like that mess up a game," said Perkins. "But Sexauer seems to get involved in things like this quite often."

Sexauer was involved in a similar incident last month against Madison in the DuPo Tournament. After being elbowed by Sexauer's Eric Stanley took a swing at the 6'4" Gibault player late in that game.

Aside from the excitement in the fourth quarter, however, the game was mostly a hum affair. Venice jumped out to an early lead, hung on through the first half, then exploded in the second to coast home.

Red Devils managed to hold off a second quarter Gibault charge. Leading only 12-10 at the first quarter stop, the Devils opened up a 20-12 lead early in the second period. Leading the way was Reggie Mathis. The 5'10" 12 guard scored 15 points in the quarter and snared six rebounds. All but three of his points came from under the basket and every rebound he got came that way.

"Reggie may have played his best game of the season tonight," said Perkins. "I'm not sure what got into him, but I hope he keeps it up."

Perkins said many of his players have started to play better recently. "I think they're worried about keeping their jobs," he said. "We're deep enough now that we can afford to sit someone down for a while and let someone else take his place."

"These guys want to play." Gibault managed to get within 23-18 through the second quarter, but a Venice spurt put the Devils back on top 35-20 just minutes later.

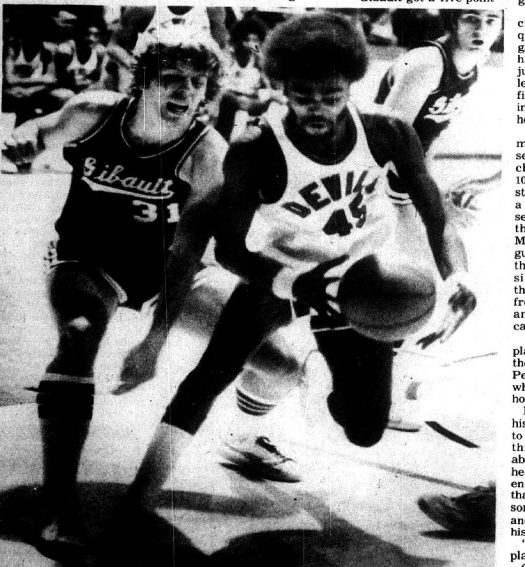

The Cougars next game will be against Rockhurst College Saturday night at 7:30 at Edwardsville High School.

Rockhurst defeated the Cougars in their last meeting on their home court 81-69 after the Cougars led at the half 28-21 in mid-December. The Cougars have won five out of the last six games and have brought their record to 9-11.

averaging .905 on charity tosses placing him third in the nation among Division II schools.

The six-foot, seven-inch senior, Cortez Collins, led the game with 39 points. He was six-for-six from the free throw line and 15 of 24 from the floor.

Benny Lewis tallied 23 points for the Cougars hitting nine out of 17 from the field and Bill Branz hit 8 out of 13 from the floor.

BEFORE THE BOUT. Venice's Ron Salmond (45) drives past Waterloo Gibault's Steve Sexauer during action Tuesday night in Venice's 87-57 win. Late in the game, Salmond and Sexauer were involved in an altercation which resulted in a technical foul on Salmond. (Press-Record Photo)

Trojan bench grinds up Livingston, 67-58

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record

LIVINGSTON — Tuesday night in the Livingston-Madison basketball game, it was a contest to see who could hold out the longest. Thanks largely to Madison's bench depth, the Trojans managed to finally wear down the fiery Eagles of Livingston, with enough stamina left to pull out a 67-58 win.

Chances are, in any game against Madison's Trojans, the opposing team had better be prepared to run. The Eagles not only kept up with the Trojans, they held a slight lead until early in the fourth quarter.

But Madison's depth, which allows it to press from the opening buzzer on, finally overcame the Eagles about midway through the quarter. "Going in, I didn't think we could run as well as them," said Eagle Coach Ed Sievers. "But I think we can stay with anybody." They've just got such good depth, and we're kind of hurting in that department." For the first three quarters Livingston did keep up. But Madison pulled ahead by five points about four minutes into the period. Ironically, the fact that Madison started to slow the game's pace, spelled trouble for Livingston.

Because the Trojans so effectively controlled the ball, the Eagles were forced to foul the Trojans in an attempt to recover possession and score. The tactic backfired, though when the Trojan's Ken Stanley scored 10 points from the free throw line, almost half the Trojans total in the entire quarter, and decided the game for Madison.

"We fouled a little too early," said Sievers. "If we could have stayed with them instead of falling behind late in the game, things might have been a little different."

Up until the last quarter, the pace was frantic. The first half action seemed to indicate that the Trojans might have been headed for an upset.

After jumping to an early lead, Madison saw the Eagles stage a come-back, led chiefly by Livingston's Tony Baraglio. The Trojans, who opened with a man-to-man defense, quickly abandoned it after Baraglio repeatedly took advantage of the right side.

Madison's Morris Hughes and Ken Stanley were also scoring effectively, however, and the Trojans held a 21-17 lead at the start of the second period.

Again, the Eagles evened the score, with the aggressive play of Ray Robertson, Livingston's forward. Robertson scored seven of 10 free throws awarded him in the period. Robertson collected the fouls because of his numerous lunging drives to the basket.

The Eagles out-scored Madison 17-13 in the quarter, tied the score at 34-34, and seemed poised for the upset in the second half.

Both teams came out cold in the beginning, but Madison slowly began to emerge as the stronger finisher. The Trojans had made some adjustments at halftime designed to slow down the threatening Eagles.

"We put Ricky Powers in on Robertson in the second half," said Madison coach

Cougars end dual season

EDWARDSVILLE — The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville wrestling Cougars polished off their dual meet season Saturday with a 32-20 victory over the Redbirds of Illinois State.

Cougar Larry Kristoff's SIUE grapplers have forged a dual meet mark of 9-7 for the year.

The 118-pound match was a double forfeit with neither team being able to produce a healthy wrestler. Tom Reed, sophomore Cougar All-American at that weight, was sidelined with flu.

Mark Hattendorf, three-time All-American for the Cougars, pinned Illinois State's Gehrig Dergo in the 177-pound match. SIUE's Tim Napier wrestled up to 167 and defeated Redbird Phil Kerr, 11-7, to give the Cougars an unsurmountable 15-point lead.

Norm Mitchell, sophomore 190-pounder for SIUE, polished off the Cougar performance with a 7-6 triumph over junior college All-American Jim Walker of Illinois State. The Cougars forfeited the heavy-weight match.

The Cougars will travel to Mankato, Minn., on Feb. 17 for the NCAA Division II Midwest Regional. This is the qualifying tournament for the Division II national championships.

Benton star opts for McKendree

LEBANON — A top basketball player from Benton, Ill., has enrolled in McKendree College this spring. Coach Harry Statham announced recently.

Rod Herrin, a transfer from the University of Missouri-Rolla will play basketball for the Bearcats beginning with the 1979-80 stint.

A 5'9", 155 pound guard, Rod averaged 16.5 points per game in high school and 5.1 points a game in his rookie season at Rolla.

He was named to the South Seven Conference, the Benton High School All-Tournament team and he played in the North-South All-Star game during his senior year at Benton.

Rod is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Herrin of Benton. His father is a graduate of McKendree and is currently head basketball coach at Benton High School. He was a former basketball star at McKendree, holding the record for most points in a single game, scoring 47 against Blackburn in 1956. His uncle, Ron Herrin, is also a McKendree graduate and is head basketball coach at Olney High School.

Softball meeting

GRANITE CITY — There will be a meeting here tonight (Thursday, Feb. 8) of all people or teams interested in having a team in this summer's Granite City Park District softball league.

The meeting will start at 7 p.m. and will be in the Namur Recreation Center. All persons or teams interested should attend. If interested and not able to attend, team representatives should contact Harold Brown or Gary Grandadier at the Park District office, 877-3059.

Look out, NBA!

GRANITE CITY — It wasn't exactly the Portland Trailblazers against the Boston Celtics, but it was fun. The annual Madison Junior High Conference basketball tournament is going on this week at Prather Junior High. Last night, Madison met Grigsby and Coolidge faced Edwardsville. Tonight, the two winners will meet for the championship at 7:30, while the losers play at 6 for third place (results in Scoreboard).

South girls win

By DOUG IRVIN for the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — The girls basketball team from Granite City South boosted its record to 4-1 after beating the Crusaders of Belleville Althoff 44-36 Monday night at the Memorial Gym. South took a lead of 18-2 in the first quarter and gave up half of it before the game ended 24 minutes later.

"We had an excellent defensive first quarter. We used our press but we got in some foul trouble with it so we took it off," said Pat Yates, coach of the Lady Warriors. "We had the clock working in our favor after our first quarter lead."

Althoff's only bucket of the first period came off the hands of Tina Traggesser from underneath South had already scored six points before this time. Chris Boyd and Susan Bell both had seven points at the end of the first eight minute period.

Fourteen-point scorer Boyd only added one point to her total in the second quarter but had several excellent passes which set up most of South's other eight points of the quarter. The teams both had nine points in the second stanza of the ball game — keeping South's lead at 16.

The Warriorettes added five more points to its lead in the third quarter 38-17 before entering the fourth and final period.

The fourth quarter was almost treacherous for the Warriorettes as Althoff tallied 11 points in a straight sequence without South adding to their total. However, Granite did come back and maintain its lead. "Bell and Nita Graham are great ball handlers and did a good job," said Yates. "Bell played tenacious defense tonight."

South puts its four game winning streak on the line in Alton tonight with the Junior varsity starting at 6:30 p.m. and the varsity at about 8 p.m. The game will be played in the annex gym at Alton Senior High School.

North downs Dupo

DUPO — The Granite City North girls' basketball team downed a pesky Dupo Tigerette squad here Wednesday night 33-24. It wasn't exactly a run-and-gun affair.

The Steelerettes of North held a slim 5-4 lead at the end of the first quarter and were ahead 13-9 at halftime.

The "big" quarter for North was the third. The Steelerettes scored 13 points in the stanza, while holding Dupo to only seven. Dupo outscored North 8-7 in the final period, but it was not enough. With the victory, North raised its season's record to 1-4.

The high scorer for North was Kathy Waldo, (sister of former North star Mike Waldo, now playing at SIUE) with eight points. Vicki Langille led Dupo with eight.

North 33, Dupo 24

Those young Granite Cityans are Harry Briggs III in the 9 year old boys group, Diana Marx in the 9 year old girls group and Kathi Teitloff in the 13 year old girls division. The state contest will be held at Champaign Centennial High School and will begin at 10:30 a.m. Participants should check in and purchase banquet and game tickets from 9:45 to 10:30 a.m. at the school.

The participants and their parents will attend a banquet at 6 o'clock that evening after attending the University of Illinois' basketball game with Iowa University that afternoon. The young cagers will be involved in a halftime program during the game.

The Hoop Shoot contest is judged on the number free throws a participant makes out of a set number of tries. The banquet Saturday evening will be held at Urbana Elks Lodge 2497. Granite City Elks Lodge 1063 has reserved a room at the Champaign motel for each participant and their families.

Whelans doing well

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Granite City's Whelands brothers, Khiris and Keith, are doing well as members of the University of Missouri wrestling team.

In a meet last weekend in Terre Haute between Missouri and Indiana State University, both turned in victories for the Tigers.

Khiris, a freshman 118-pounder, earned a major decision when he defeated ISU's Bob Dickman 15-5. Keith won by forfeit 126 pounds. He is a sophomore transfer from Florissant Valley Junior College in St. Louis.

Both brothers are graduates of Granite City High School North. The next dual meet for Mizou is tonight at 7:30 in Columbia.

McCormick takes three first places

BELEVILLE — Mike McCormick, the son of Larry and Gail McCormick of Granite City, took three first places here Sunday in the Belleville YMCA AAU swimming meet.

Mike, competing in the eight-and-under age group, took first in the 25 yard freestyle in a time of 16.1, the 25 yard breaststroke in 20.8 and the 25 yard butterfly in 19.0.

Mike competes for the Edwardsville YMCA and is a third-grader at Parkview School.

Men attack wrong youth

John H. Ryan, 16, of 2219 Missouri Ave., was struck on the head with a club and then kicked by two men while he was walking home from a friend's house at 11 p.m. Sunday. The incident occurred at 23rd Street and Delmar Avenue. Ryan said the men jumped from a car that pulled alongside him and the driver struck him with the club, knocking him to the ground. He called Ryan, "Jerry" and said he owed him $35 and added, "You're going to pay."

The youth fell ill, but walked to the main fire station in the 2400 block of Madison Avenue. He was told all ambulances were out on calls, but that he could wait until one returned to be taken to hospital.

Ryan walked to a pay phone nearby and called officers who drove him to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was treated for a bump on the forehead and released.

Police are seeking the men who are described as being about 19 years old.

DO YOU KNOW THE ROPES?

An experienced sailor in the days of sailing vessels, was one who was familiar with the bewildering array of ropes leading to all parts of the many sheets of paper that make up the modern homemaker's life. It surely pays the modern homemaker to know the ropes when she buys an important item like meat. Years ago, customers said no attention to beef grading, they did not know that all beef was graded, then, as it is now, by the government. This is for your protection so you will always receive the kind of meat you are paying for. On all our advertisements, you will note that we state the grade of beef on every cut. Look at the labels on beef in our cases - They will be marked "CHOICE". It surely pays to "know the ropes" when buying beef. As every homemaker knows - IT'S THE MEAT THAT MAKES THE MEAL.

The Lighter Side

Being alone and being lonely aren't the same things, but . . .

How do you feel about being alone? As a wife and mother in good standing, I had often wondered what it would be like to have some time all to myself.

I found out in June 1976. The kids had gone to Grandma's and my husband was off to Arkansas for a couple of days.

The house was quiet! I was all alone to do whatever I wanted to do.

I decided right then that I was going to do everything that I never had time to do, what with mothering chores and all. What a fantastic weekend this was going to be!

With all the housewife things that I have to do, sleeping in is one luxury that I had never been able to enjoy.

On that first day of my "vacation," the most disagreeable hour of the day, 8 a.m., came and went without my knowing it. With no kids to separate and no breakfast to cook, there wasn't any reason to get up, so I didn't.

After lounging around for a couple of hours, I tried to decide what to do with my day. The first thing I decided to do was NOT to do the laundry.

Oh, the sheer joy of leaving the clothes basket to fend for itself! That was to be the highlight of my weekend.

I decided not to do a lot of things. I did not clean, cook or scrub anything. Instead, I tried to cram all of the things I had ever wanted to do into that first day.

I watched television. It was Saturday and I had the set to myself for the first time in 12 years. I watched mushy love stories, horror movies and ice skating competition.

I took bathroom privileges that I would never dare take when everyone was at home. I stayed in the tub for two hours, up to my chin in bubbles and bath oil. I spent another two hours creating new hairstyles for myself, washing each one out as a new idea hit me.

I really had a ball. I did only those things that I wanted to do, with no thought for the ordinary scheduled things like dinner and dishes. Of course, doing all of that stuff only took up Saturday. By Sunday morning, I was bored and looking for a fight to break up. By that same afternoon, I was going crazy.

I lasted until about 8 that night, and then I began frantically calling my family back home. I had had enough of doing what I wanted to do.

What I found out back in June of '76 was that I actually LIKE baking cookies, watching football and taking my turn in the tub.

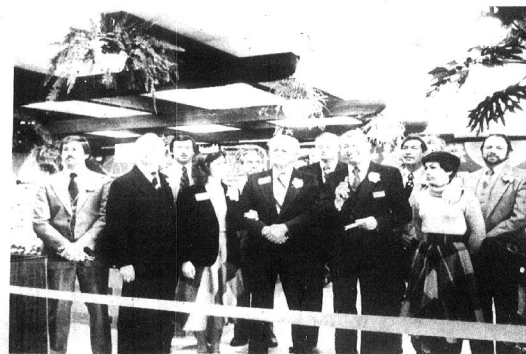

Time all to myself? Who needs it?

(By the way, thank you, Bob's Flower's for the lovely arrangement that arrived at my desk last Friday, the day after the "Roses are red" column appeared. Now I know that somebody cares. I also received a single red rose from my husband; isn't it remarkable what a little word here and there will do?)

'Walking' movement grows

The year 1979 is expected to be a big year for growth of the "walking movement" in America, according to David Toth, a native Granite Cityan and a founder of the walking for health movement in this country.

Toth, who is a flight surgeon with the U.S. Air Force, 6570th Aerospace Medical Research Laboratory at Wright Patterson Air Force Base, noted during a recent visit to Granite City that 1979 marks the 11th anniversary of the international movement and will feature several major meets, including one this June sponsored by Toth's Ohio Wanderer Freunde of Dayton, Ohio, which is expected to attract 250 Europeans here.

Competition is a by-product of the organized walking or hiking movement. It provides exercise for all ages, since each participant can set his or her own pace. The main draws of organized hiking are fun and fellowship, according to Toth.

During 1978, ten major hiking or walking events were held in the U.S., four of which were sponsored or co-sponsored by Ohio Wanderer Freunde, the club Toth formed. The year started with two clubs in the United States and ended with 16 as the idea grew. The organization is known as the International Federation for Popular Sports.

Toth is "spreading the word" about the advantages of organized walking and expects 100 clubs to be active in this country by the end of 1979. Clubs currently exist in California, Texas, Kentucky, Ohio, Missouri and other states, as well as in Canada. Formation of a club this year in Illinois is among the movement's major goals. The growth in the United States has been only a small part of the international growth as an estimated 10 million persons in 14 countries now participate in organized walking events, according to Toth.

Organizers reward participants by certifying that they qualified for certain awards, patches, etc. The participant then is enabled to purchase that award, with his own money, if he wishes.

Since participants pay for their own awards and all organizers are volunteers who do not receive compensation, the program can remain basically free of dues, assessments or other costs.

The walking program appeals to scout troops, fraternities, service clubs, non-profit organizations and individuals. In Ohio alone, more than 1,100 persons have participated in organized walking programs, according to Toth.

He said his club is interested in providing more information to clubs, groups or individuals who may be interested in organizing a walking or hiking group. Additional information may be obtained by writing Toth at Ohio Wanderer Freunde, AMC Branch, Box 33543, Dayton, Ohio, 45433.

Toth was born in Granite City, graduated in 1963 from Granite City High School, graduated in 1967 from the University of Illinois and completed medical training at the University of Chicago Medical School. He then joined the Air Force as a doctor.

Cutting home heating costs

(Office of Lieutenant-Governor Dave O'Neal)
Q. The winter months are particularly hard on elderly citizens and other persons on fixed incomes, when paying utility bills. Does the state of Illinois have some advice on how to conserve on energy so that I can reduce the cost of my utilities?

A. The state's Institute of Natural Resources has a pamphlet available at no charge to the public entitled, "156 Ways to Save Energy That Also Save You Money."

The information concerns suggestions on how to conserve on energy generated through heating, cooling, food preparation and storage, water usage, automobile care and selection, lighting, yard and workshop habits and other means.

Here are a few suggestions which the INR makes concerning energy conservation and heating:

—Turn down the furnace thermostat whenever you leave home for five hours or more in the winter.

—Insulate floors over unheated spaces such as crawl spaces and garages.

—Check to see if you have at least six inches (R-19) of insulation in the attic.

—Don't use the oven to quickly heat the kitchen.

—Lower the thermostat an extra two or three degrees in the winter when entertaining a large group of people.

—Keep doors to the outside firmly shut and properly weatherstripped.

—Open draperies and shades on sunny winter days.

—Seal spaces around attic stairway doors and pull-down stairways.

—Seal drafty windows with ordinary masking tape; where appearances count, substitute cellophane tape.

—Limit portable electric heater's use to temporary spot heating; it is the most costly form of heat.

—Lower the thermostat to 55 degrees when leaving the house for a day or more.

—Draw window shades and drapes at night to reduce the winter heat loss through the glass.

—Add a shield of metal or aluminum foil behind radiators to reflect heat into the room.

—Set your heater thermostat at the recommended 68 degrees and leave it alone during the day; overnight, lower the setting 5 to 10 degrees; this saves about 15 percent in heating costs.

—Close windows and avoid drafts near the thermostat in winter.

—Keep the radiators or registers clear of obstructions to allow heat to circulate, i.e., furniture, rugs and drapes.

If you would like a copy of the free pamphlet, just write to "156 Ways," Illinois Institute of Natural Resources, 222 S. College, Springfield 62706.

Please write or call Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal's Senior Action Centers at 160 N. LaSalle, Chicago 60601, or 3 West Old Town Mall, Springfield 62701, with questions or concerns about any government agency or programs. This column will cover questions senior citizens may have on various subjects.

UFO lecture to be Sunday

In a free lecture sponsored by the UFO Study Group of Greater St. Louis, Inc., Clarence O. Dargie, a civilian employee of the Defense Department, will discuss "A New Look at Old Cases."

The nationally known historical researcher and member of the board of directors of Webster College will compare ancient records of UFO contacts with contemporary sightings at 2 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 11, at the Farm and Home Savings Building, 110 West Lockwood (Lockwood at Gore), Webster Groves, Mo.

Dargie, a native of Maine and for many years a member of the United States Air Force, first became interested after a 1950 encounter with one. Since then he has collected ancient accounts of unidentified flying objects and extraterrestrial beings. Dargie is a friend of and has lectured with Erich Von Daniken, author of several best sellers including Chariots of the Gods.

Dargie contrasts reports of prehistoric flight and apparent atomic warfare with contemporary accounts of flying saucers, time wars, teleportation and other mysteries. He collaborated with UFO expert Raymond Fowler on the book UFOs—Interplanetary Visitors, and is currently compiling material for another publication.

You still have time to gain an extra 1978 tax deduction with IRA or Keogh

You have until April 15, 1979—or until you file your 1978 income tax return—to establish an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) or to contribute a portion of your 1978 earnings to an existing Keogh Plan.

Through either plan, you can earn up to 8% annual interest on your contributions. And both contributions and interest earnings accumulate tax-free until you begin withdrawing these funds upon retirement—when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket.

You're eligible to open an IRA as long as you don't participate in any other tax-qualified employee plan. A Keogh Plan allows persons with self-employment income to set aside tax-deductible savings.

Candidates screening Saturday

The AFL-CIO Screening Committee of the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council again will screen candidates for Granite City offices and for Venice and Granite City Park District posts on Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon.

Granite City voters will elect seven aldermen and a street superintendent April 3. The Venice Park District will elect two commissioners on April 3, and the Granite City Park District will elect two commissioners on April 17.

Some of the candidates in those elections appeared during the weekend before the trades council screening committee, which had scheduled interviews during two weekends.

Screening sessions also will be planned later for candidates in the April 17 city and village elections in Madison, Venice and Ponton Beach. Filings for those elections will end Feb. 13.

Arrest man in incident at hospital

Jerry R. Sedabres, 23, of 2815 E. 24th St., was arrested on a state charge of battery this week following an incident in which he allegedly struck and injured his wife, Glenda Sedabres, while she was in a hospital bed.

Sedabres allegedly went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and was asked by his wife to leave. He allegedly refused to go.

She started to summon a security officer on the intercom, at which time he began striking her in the face and jerked a catheter from her when tubing became entangled around his feet, officers reported.

Mrs. Sedabres suffered a blackened eye and a gash under the other eye.

A woman patient in the same room told the man not to jerk on the tubing, she said. A nurse aide was in the room at the time of the incident, police said.

Sedabres went to the police station a short time later and was arrested. He was released on payment of $100 cash bond.

Paint sludge dumped here is no hazard

Contents of hundreds of drums being disposed of here are wastes and sludges from oil-base paint. There are about 750 drums on each of nine flat-bed trailers.

Kenneth Mensing, regional manager, Southern Region, Land Pollution Control, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, said the contents at the Mal landfill south of Madison pose no immediate danger to the area.

"Of course, under certain conditions, such as exposure to high heat or flames, such material could possibly explode or burn," Mensing said, but he added that these conditions won't happen.

He said the landfill is now in the progress of digging shallow trenches in an area not to be used for common waste disposal.

Trenching has been curtailed due to icy weather, and he does not know when the 55-gallon drums will be buried, Mensing added.

He said the drums will be placed in the trenches in an orderly fashion, one layer deep, and then will be covered by several feet of dirt.

WINTERTIME 'HARVEST' AT LANDFILL. Several hundred 55-gallon drums of flammable waste and sludge from oil-base paint are shown at the Mal landfill south of Madison on Highway 203. All are to be buried beneath several feet of dirt.

Carter thwarts workfare

By ROBERT ESTILL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau

When Congress, in general, and Republican lawmakers, in particular, talk of trimming the budget, welfare reform always is high on the agenda.

But nothing much ever gets done. The frustrating experiences of Rep. Paul Findley, R-Pittsfield, provides clues as to why, despite rampant rhetoric, welfare waste is largely unchecked.

Given the immensity of the problem, Findley's proposal, enacted into law, is modest. It calls simply for having a comparatively few of the nation's 17 million food stamp recipients perform public service jobs to earn their benefits — all only by able-bodied, temporarily unemployed recipients.

A mother with six youngsters at home would not have to leave her family to earn her food stamps. Findley deliberately avoided embarking on a more grandiose scheme to revise the entire welfare system. Such a play would have foredoomed his efforts by uniting in opposition the White House, Congressional liberals and welfare rights organizations.

Instead, he thought small. He opted for a little experimental tinkering to see if a segment of the system could be made more productive without penalizing the genuinely needy.

A third-ranking Republican on the House Agriculture Committee, he felt that the U.S. Department of Agriculture-administered food stamp program was a natural target for him.

He knew he would not be tinkering with a clock that kept good time. That had been made abundantly clear in a 1977 report by the General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress.

The GAO report showed more than $500 million a year in food stamps were over-issued due to a nearly even mixture of fraud and error.

Over-issuances accounted for $12 of every $100 in benefits — and $17 of every $100 in Illinois, according to the GAO. Of each $12 in over-issued benefits, only 12 cents was being recovered.

Nor is there any sign that spending is being contained. Food stamp spending rose from $5.49 billion in fiscal 1978 to $6.32 billion in the current fiscal year. President Carter is asking $6.87 billion for the 1980 fiscal year which starts Oct. 1, 1979.

In view of such spending and waste, Findley's approach was to require the USDA, and the Labor Department to set up 14 pilot projects — one in an urban area and one in a rural area in each of seven USDA administrative regions.

Any state or local government could apply to sponsor a one-year pilot program if it had a public service program, or could set one up, if it had the cooperation of the welfare agency.

That idea was incorporated into law as part of the food stamp section of the farm bill signed by President Jimmy Carter in October 1977. Getting it to work is quite another thing.

Pres. Carter had signalled his opposition to the idea in the early stages, and that led to foot-dragging by USDA bureaucrats.

"I suspect his lack of enthusiasm for this is a reflection of the lack of progress," Findley said. "I see no sign that this is a high priority. It is hard to push through a reform without the enthusiastic support of the administration."

When private coaxing failed, Findley went public last spring, accusing the USDA of violating the law by not meeting the Congressionally-set time-table for putting the idea into action.

Despite public and private prodding by Findley, it still took the USDA until Nov. 28, 1978, to advertise the new program in the Federal Register — about 13 months after the bill was signed.

The USDA did not begin promoting it through news releases and letters to governors and mayors until early December. And then, in the midst of the holiday season, it gave potential sponsors only until Jan. 12 to apply.

By Dec. 27, they had not a single applicant. On the Jan. 12 deadline, USDA spokesmen would say only that they did not have enough applicants to meet the Congressional mandate. They would not say how many — or how few — applications they had.

But the USDA did extend the deadline until Feb. 12 and is hopeful it will come up with the 14 properly distributed applicants that Congress has dictated.

Findley said he has had no satisfactory explanation from the USDA as to why it took 13 months to advertise the program and then gave potential sponsors short notice during the holiday season to apply.

The problem does not rest solely with the federal government.

Findley had broached the idea of Illinois being a statewide project to members of Illinois Gov. James Thompson's staff, but nothing came of it.

Not only is the state apparently unwilling to become a pilot project, Findley said he knows of not a single Illinois local government which has applied.

There is community resistance as well. Local governments are unwilling to shape up the "status quo" unless Uncle Sam provides the dollars to do it.

Although the federal government pays for record-keeping costs to monitor the success or failure of the pilot projects, it does not provide any money for administering them.

Findley said he has been pegged between 20 and 30 percent of the value of the food stamp benefits in a pilot project.

He is considering offering the administrative costs, but is concerned that this might further slow down the efforts.

"Frankly, I am disappointed," Findley said. "It is a mighty poor start to test the 'workfare' concept."

Adjusted gross income on U.S. form is vital to Illinois tax return

The first step in filling out your Illinois income tax form is to take a federal income tax form and complete it.

"You must have the 'adjusted gross income' information from a federal tax return before you can begin filling out your state tax return," explains Gary E. manager of the Illinois Revenue Department's income tax processing division.

"Line 1 of the state income tax return calls for this 'adjusted gross income' figure," E. noted.

"In addition, some documents from the federal return are required for taxpayers to verify certain state income tax subtraction entries, such as for pension support and interest derived from U.S. government bonds, notes or bills.

"All such documents, along with W-2 forms, should be stapled to the state tax return before mailing."

Taxpayers may receive information and assistance free-of-charge at district offices of the Illinois Department of Revenue located in Springfield, Chicago, Evergreen Park, Wauconda, West Chicago, Niles, Oak Park, Rockford, Rock Island, Peoria, Champaign, Marion and East St. Louis.

After the big spring melt—some flooding?

Only one thing is as certain as winter snow in Illinois — spring melting.

Whether or not melting in the near future creates serious flooding or not depends on several variables, the most obvious factors being how warm it gets and how quickly the snow melts. Near-normal temperatures are predicted for February, so the snow may melt gradually without flooding.

"One problem is that the ground was frozen before the snow came," explains Dr. Reginald D. Henry, Illinois State University professor of agriculture. "The water from the melting snow can't be absorbed into the ground until the frost is gone. So all the water will run off, and there could be some soil erosion from that."

"The soil itself, however, won't be affected much because a snow cover is very good for the soil," he said.

"In the winter, we normally get a lot of wind erosion of the soil, but this year there's been virtually none because of the snow cover."

"Another benefit of the snow is that once the ground thaws, the snow is better for it than rain, because it melts slowly, percolates slowly, and replenishes the ground water table better than rain.

"If the subsoil moisture level is low, a late-winter or early-spring snow is better than rain."

Dr. Eric S. Johnson, assistant professor of geography at ISU, said that runoff at ISU (Normal-Bloomington) could result in more damage toward the south.

"There probably won't be severe flooding here because we're high enough, but the Illinois River Valley could flood badly with rapid melting," he concluded.

Appeals board OKs 2 special use permits

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will recommend to the County Board the approval of requests for two special use permits and the denial of a third in the Quad-City area.

The recommendations are based on hearings conducted by the appeals board. The board will recommend that a special use permit be granted to Josephine Blumh to operate a confectionery in conjunction with the existing cafeteria at 2032 Alton Ave. in Cloverleaf Addition. The property is located in an R-4 (Single Family) district in Nameoki Township.

Recommendation that a special use permit be granted Gerald W. Zimmerman to place a mobile home in an R-4 district also has been made by the appeals board. The mobile home is to be placed at 3104 Princeton Drive in State Park Place, Nameoki Township.

The appeals board ruled that the permit be granted for a period of not more than five years, that it apply only to the petitioner and that its installation comply with all Madison County Building Code requirements.

The board will recommend denial of a petition for a special use permit filed by Leslie L. Gurley to establish a kennel for a maximum of five dogs in an R-3 (Residential) district at 120 Springfield Ave. in Paradise Acres No. 2, Chouteau Township.

LITERACY EMPHASIS BY EDUCATION BOARD
The State Board of Education has pledged its support of Illinois Right-to-Read Week May 6-12, 1979. The Right-to-Read program is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education and seeks to achieve functional literacy in more than 90 percent of the country's population by 1980. State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin said, "Literacy is an avenue to greater social and economic opportunities, to deciding one's own destiny and to being able to contribute more fully to the welfare of our society."

Fall TV rated

TUPELO, MISS.—ABC was the top programmer of sex on television, while CBS was the top network for profanity according to the report of the National Federation for Decency for last fall's monitoring program.

The NFD report showed ABC with 1212 scenes of suggested sexual intercourse and sexually suggestive comments. CBS was next with 968 while NBC was the least sex-oriented network with 518.

When jiggly scenes (defined by the NFD as undue and unnecessary emphasis on the female anatomy) were added, ABC was rated 1948, CBS at 1579, and NBC at 1013.

The report covered 762.5 hours of prime-time programming between September 10 and December 2. It showed that 88 percent of all sex shown on television was depicted outside marriage.

Most of the sexually-oriented programming appeared on network television. CBS Movies was the highest rated, with ABC Movies next and NBC Movies third. Other programs with high sex ratings included Soap, Love Boat, Three's Company, Dallas, The Big Event, Charlie's Angels, and Vegas.

The least sexually-oriented programs were Grandpa Goes to Washington, World Series, American League Playoffs, Life Line, Project UFO, Different Strokes, Little House On The Prairie, The Waltons, Monday Night Football, and Dunny and Marie.

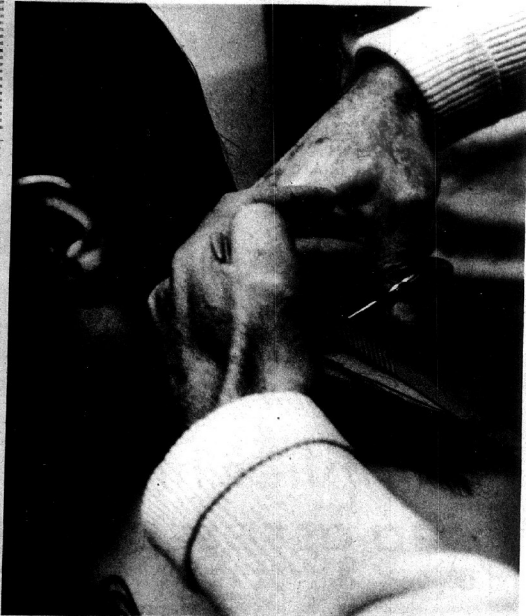

ABC aired 4.76 sex incidents per hour not including the jiggly scenes, while CBS rated 3.86 and NBC 2.01. Adding the jiggly scenes ABC aired 7.65 per hour, CBS 6.30 and NBC 3.93.

A complete copy of the monitoring report can be secured without cost by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to the NFD, Box 1398, Tupelo, Miss. 38801.

At the per hour rate viewers would be exposed to 11,639 sex incidents over a year of prime-time viewing not including jiggly scenes, and 19,578 sex incidents including the jiggly scenes. The amount of sex aired, not including the jiggly scenes, increased 25.6 percent over the monitoring report for the fall of 1977. The NFD did not include jiggly scenes in its 1977 report.

Top sponsors of sex on television were Procter & Gamble, Bristol-My

THE EXPERT HANDS above are those of Jay Shapiro, one of the best hair designers around. Shapiro (right) creates a new style for Granite Cityan Chris Roberts.

The hair designer

Teaching others to make the look fit the woman

A NEW LOOK for Sunita Hemrajani. The style was created by Jay Shapiro and cut by John Bell, co-owner of the Lion's Mane. Both the lady and her husband were pleased. Bell declared that he wishes he could sign his name on the cut.

Jay Shapiro loves elegance and beauty. He dresses for dinner, rarely loses his patience and never raises his voice.

Along with all of these things, the man has a special quality that makes his work stand out in a competitive field. Shapiro is one of the most talented, sought after hair designers around.

He has just been in Granite City and held a workshop for the designers at the Lion's Mane Hair Design Studio, 3717D Nameoki Road. He was brought in by the shop's owners, Fred McCollegan and John Bell, to instruct and encourage the designers in Shapiro's trend-setting methods.

Shapiro took most of his training in London and has traveled all over the world, working and teaching. What he passes on to other already established designers, is not as much technique as it is a way of thinking.

As far as technique goes, Shapiro works to do the best with what nature put there. "I study face, body and lifestyle of my patron," he said. "I look at the way the hair grows. I cut and create a style that fits the woman as I see her."

He does not do fad hairstyles. "I am an artist and I must have artistic freedom. What looks great on one woman does nothing for the next," he said. "One of the joys in this business is in creating a look for a woman that is truly her own, making her feel good about who she is."

The rest of what Shapiro does comes from his heart. He feels that there is something naturally beautiful in everyone. It is with this feeling that he designs a hair style. It is that feeling that he passes along to others.

The designers who work at the Lion's Mane say they are learning much from the artistic Jay Shapiro.

Perry Hendrickson, who has attended all of the workshops that Shapiro has given at the Lion's Mane, is impressed by his teacher. "I have learned an incredible amount from the man," Hendrickson said. "He has such a great attitude. It makes you want to know what he knows."

John Bell said that Shapiro really cares about the people whose hair he styles. "He will not touch hair that is not in good condition, and neither will we. This is especially true of someone who is coming in for a permanent."

"We employ a testing process at the shop so that we may determine the strengths and weaknesses of the hair. We can then condition it and bring it up to a healthy state."

Fred McCollegan said that the Lion's Mane is fast becoming one of the most progressive hair design shops in the area.

"Having Jay here at the shop is helping us to keep up with the current trends," he said. "Jay is teaching us to be more artistic in our work."

"We have been programmed into cutting styles, not individual people. Jay is showing us how to bring out the individual's best qualities, thus creating a look that is both her own and in vogue."

The current trend is moving toward less and less blow drying, according to McCollegan. "Jay runs a shop in Clayton, called J Ltd, and blow dryers are becoming a thing of the past there," he said. "We at the Lion's Mane are doing more work that requires little care. No drying... just wash, let dry naturally, and go."

"Everything is being geared to natural beauty. We concentrate on conditioning, very little color change, and natural looking cuts," McCollegan continued.

"To do this, we follow Jay's advice and have taken the attitude that we, as professionals, have the knowledge and the artistic ability to tell our customers what will look best on them."

"Of course, in any one studio you may get several different opinions. The best course for the patron is to find a designer who thinks along the same lines as she does, and stick with him or her."

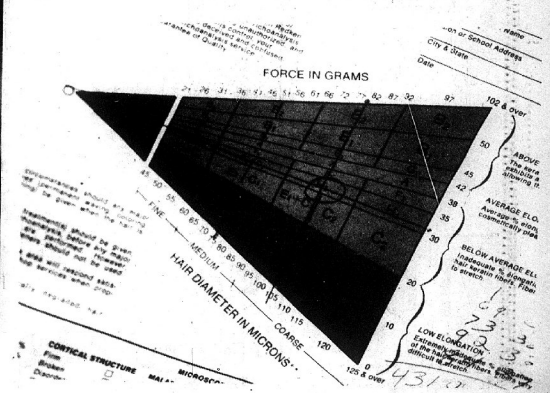

All of the designers at the Lion's Mane are beginning to think more and more the way Shapiro thinks. Each is learning to use his or her own creativity with Jay's gentle coaching.

Not all will be Jay Shapiros; not all can be masters. But each is being given a part of the artistic young man, an important part.

Shapiro leaves the hair designers with an ideal basic to their work, that idea being that they, with their expertise, can bring out the natural beauty of every woman who sits in the stylist's chair.

It is that idea that makes Jay Shapiro one of the best.

Grant for youth conservation project

A $27,000 grant to develop an environmental study area at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and provide summer employment for area youth has been approved by the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Robert Williams, assistant professor of elementary and early childhood education and director of the project, said it is part of the 1979 federal Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) program and will operate like similar projects in the '30s.

"We will start by improving the environmental nature trail near the faculty club on the campus and then add an exercise course and extend the existing bike-jogging path toward the bluff area," he said. The project is intended to provide facilities to improve both the environmental awareness and the physical well-being of area residents.

All labor for the two-month project will be provided by 22 eligible YCC youths hired at $2.90 an hour for a 30-hour week.

An additional 10 hours each week will be used for recreation, including optional field trips to the Koster Indian site at Kampsville, the hiking trails at Pere Marquette State Park at Grafton and the Gateway Arch Museum of Westward Expansion at St. Louis.

If time permits, workers will also learn how to build a log cabin by reconstructing an authentic cabin at SIUE, to be used as an environmental education center or for other outdoor activities.

Younger children will also benefit from construction of campus playground, tennis and revitalization of an existing, stocked pond, Williams said. After shoring an existing dam and constructing a retaining wall, the Roman pond near the SIUE Science Building will be open for fishing, especially for children.

"The children don't care if the fish are little or big," Williams said. "They just like to catch lots and lots of fish."

Williams said the YCC project at SIUE is one of several approved for the metropolitan area and is open for employment only to Madison County residents, 15-18 years old. Applications are available from Williams (692-3882) or local high school counselors.

Residents outside Madison County may contact high school counselors in their area, the Illinois Department of Conservation or Williams for employment information at other sites.

Applications for employment at any site must be completed and sent to Washington, D.C. by March 15. SIUE will employ 11 men and 11 women selected at random by zip code numbers, Williams said.

Work on the project will be completed by Aug. 3. All tools, supplies and materials, including safety hard hats and gloves, will be provided.

"The program is designed to provide a positive experience for participants and their families and should have a long-term impact on the entire area and on the YCC program throughout the country," Williams said.

McPike on 3 committees

Rep. Jim McPike (D-Alton) has been appointed by House Speaker William A. Redmond (D-Bensenville) to serve on three House committees—Appropriation I, Labor-Commerce and Revenue.

The Appropriation I Committee oversees the budgets of state officials and agencies responsible for day-to-day operations of state government, such as Transportation, Civil Service Commission, Environmental Protection, Board of Elections, Supreme Court and Governor's Office.

The Labor-Commerce Committee has primary jurisdiction over areas of management and labor laws. This usually includes such topics as workers' compensation, unemployment insurance, collective bargaining, minimum wage and fair employment practices.

The Revenue Committee has jurisdiction over question of state revenue raised by imposition of statewide taxes and the administration of such taxes, and local revenue raised through assessment, extension and collection of property taxes, and related administrative procedures.

The Illinois House has 22 standing committees. Except by an extraordinary vote of the House, bills must be considered by one or more committees before reaching the House floor.

South, North on schedule of 'Facing today's world'

By PAT FOLEY
Press-Record Staff Writer

Venice High School was selected to be the first audience in the United States to view a multi-media assembly program which was presented to the students Wednesday morning in the school cafeteria. Madison High was the site later that day, and the schedule includes GCHS North Feb. 8 and South Feb. 13.

"International Animation: Learning to Face Today's World," is sponsored by the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. of Alton.

Designed as a lively and entertaining educational experience in the art of animation, International Animation, commented by Art Broglie, explores the many techniques of animation as well as the underlying themes found in most cartoons, past and present. The program makes use of two large rear-projected movie screens combined with the music and commentary by Broglie, who produced and wrote the script which accompanies the show.

The development of animation from its birth in turn-of-the-century France to the special effects wizardry of modern films. Examples from ten foreign countries are featured in the presentation in addition to the familiar American cartoon characters including Popeye, Bugs Bunny and Woody Woodpecker.

International Animation is the third in a series of programs offered annually by the company.

The two previous shows, Tuned-In and America Laughs, were enthusiastically received by more than five million students at 5,200 schools nationwide.

Venice High School was the first of twelve schools in this area which will be viewing the animation program.

The show was presented to Madison Senior High students Wednesday afternoon.

Future scheduling of the presentation includes four showings at Granite City High School North on Feb. 8. The showings will be at 8 and 9:10 in the morning and again at 1:30 and 2:30 that afternoon.

Also, there will be three showings presented at GCHS South on Feb. 13 at 9:30 a.m. and at 1:30 and 2:30 p.m.

Air program is recertified

Recertification for Belleville Area College's aviation maintenance program has been granted by the Federal Aviation Administration. Certification had been suspended since a fire destroyed the total operation of the maintenance program on Aug. 9. It was granted again on Jan. 18.

Only days after the FAA recertified the program, Steve Miller, corporate secretary of the W. A. Schickel Agency, gave the college a check which represented the final settlement of a claim made by RAC as a result of the fire.

Miller said the total payout of $447,362 was the largest claim his company has paid. Don Chapman, supervisor of the aviation program at the college, said, "It is hard to conceive of the effort that has gone into rebuilding the program."

"The work of ten years was burned up in one evening. To get a workable, certified program going again in five months took tremendous work and cooperation from faculty, administrators and students."

No time was missed from classes as a result of the fire. New facilities were located and classes were held a week after the blaze. Students continued classes with the knowledge that certification had been suspended but was being sought.

INCOME TAX TIPS BY STATE AGENCY

The Illinois Department of Revenue has advised Illinois taxpayers to file income tax returns early, make sure the return is correct, and be sure to sign it. "Last year, 30,000 persons forgot to sign their returns," said Gary V. Ey, manager of the department's income tax processing division.

He added that errors like this—or failure to include a W-2 form (stapled to the return) or an error in a Social Security number—can delay a refund check for weeks.

Multiplier hikes area assessments

Application of a multiplying factor of 1.092 to all Granite City real estate assessments was authorized by the Madison County Board of Review Monday by a 2 to 1 vote.

The review board at the same time approved assessment multipliers of 1.029 in Nameoki Township, 1.0857 in Venice Township and 1.0533 in Chouteau Township.

Assessments in 21 of the 24 Madison County townships, including those in the Quad-City area, were increased by multipliers as a result of the board's action Monday.

Real estate valuations were increased by 25 percent (multiplier of 1.2500) in three rural townships, New Douglas, St. Jacob and Marine. Collinsville was given a multiplier of 1.033.

Two townships—Jarvis and Moro—received reductions through multiplying factors of .820 for Jarvis and .970 for Moro. The Quad-City area multipliers conformed with projected multiplying factors announced earlier by James Barton, Madison County supervisor of assessments.

One review board member, Terryl Francis, opposed application of all factors, but their use was approved by Board Members Robert Harris and Fred Finck who said township multipliers applied by the county were necessary to bring assessments within the 33.33 percent ratio required by the Illinois State Department of Government Affairs.

Applied locally, the multipliers will affect only real estate property, and not corporate personal property which still is on the books for payment this year. Barton has explained that if a state multiplying factor were allowed to remain, it would apply to all property, including personal property valuations.

The state had announced a multiplying factor of 1.07 was fixed for Madison County and would apply unless assessments were revised locally to meet the 33.33 percent cash ratio requirement.

Francis maintained that the 1.07 multiplier fixed by the state should be applied to corporate personal property. He said the review board and the supervisor of assessments has the authority to reduce personal property values wherever application of the state multiplier might inflict an unjust assessment.

County officials admitted, however, that they have no projections at this time as to what the locally applied multipliers will mean in tax bills extended for collections this summer.

Under state law, homeowners who occupy their properties may apply for an exemption of up to $1,500 to offset increases that would result from application of the multiplying factors.

The $1,500 exemption allowance is to cover a three-year period. Any part of the $1,500 allowance may be claimed for the 1978 assessment on which taxes will be collected later this year.

Any balance of the $1,500, if there is one, is carried over and may be claimed in 1980 or in 1981 or both, so long as the overall total during the three years does not exceed $1,500.

This would mean that a person with a home assessed at $10,000, increased by a 10 percent multiplier to $11,000, could claim $1,000 of his allowed $1,500 to offset the increase this year. This would leave him a balance of $500 to be claimed next year or in the following year if his assessment again was increased.

Applications for the exemptions will be accepted by township assessors through Feb. 15. After that time it will be possible to compute assessments under the multipliers, and the amount of exemptions to offset those increases, officials said.

Watch Them

The Future of Boy Scouting
Is OUR Future As Well!

Our boys have a lot of growing to do... but as Scouts, we're sure they'll grow in the right direction. Because what a Scout learns today stays with him throughout life. Scouts don't just become better boys... they become better men.

Scouting Helps Make Our World
A Little Nicer For Everyone!

The folks in this community would like to extend a hearty 'thanks' to all the Scouts and leaders for the fine work they do. Their dedication to life's highest ideals, have helped to make them the exceptional young men that they are!

Self-Reliant

A Scout learns how to take care of himself... out in the wilderness... and in the world. He's shown the fun of exploring, the value of questioning and the result of hard work. We can be proud of our Scouts.

1700 Edison Avenue

Aiming High

A Scout learns to develop his skills, to become aware of his capacities... and to try his best at anything he attempts. He's encouraged to be a good winner, and a good loser... and most important, to feel good about himself.

Niedringhaus & Edison Ave.
Granite City, Ill.

Teamwork

Boys of all different backgrounds are brought together through Scouting. It becomes a rich and rewarding experience for them... sharing, learning and striving... together. Happy Birthday Scouts.

1960 Edison Ave., Granite City

Scouting Is

Pulling Together
To Make Good Things Happen

Scouts are taught that working alongside one another, with one common goal can be rewarding. That active participation in projects gets things done... and cooperation and team effort can accomplish much more than working alone. We're mighty proud of our Scouts and the work they do!

DO THE WANT ADS MAKE YOU FEEL UNWANTED?

Let's face it, young man. It's tough to get a good job without experience or a high school diploma. If you'd like a job interview where you'll really feel needed, see your Army recruiter.

He's got a variety of training courses to choose from... construction, transportation, air defense artillery, you name it. If you're qualified for one of our openings, you'll get it. Guaranteed.

And you'll get paid for it, too. Today's Army starts you at $419 a month. And that's over and above the free meals, free housing, free medical and dental care, and up to 30 days free vacation each year.

Right now, opportunities are available for both high school and non-high school grads!

Alleges auto forced into R. 3 ditch
Robert H. Chapman, 100 Briarhaven Drive, reported at 4:35 p.m. Monday that a car closely followed his southbound vehicle on Route 3 for about two miles and when he started to pull from the roadway, the driver of the second auto appeared to deliberately hit Chapman's car, causing him to lose control and go into a ditch. While Chapman was making the report to an officer at the scene, the second vehicle was seen traveling northbound on Route 3 and was halted by police near Rock Road.

When asked to produce his driver's license, the man in the second vehicle allegedly threatened the officer. A backup squad car was requested and Gary J. Rowden, 14 Tulip Ave., was taken to police headquarters. Rowden was booked on charges of driving while intoxicated and reckless driving. He was released at 1:20 a.m. Tuesday on payment of $35 cash bond, to return for a hearing by March 3.
